Arroyo Assumes Office 'Third Way' Out Needed

Discrepancies 'Noted' but Flawed Results Validated Anyway

A constitutional crisis has been brewed in the Philippines. The ingredients of this dangerous concoction are a history of Edsa "People Power" (unconstitutional removal of Filipino presidents Marcos and Estrada through the use of military force) combined with blatant abuse of power to retain power through massive electoral fraud.

Meanwhile, of course, the serious plight of the average Filipino with respect to poverty and hunger remains entirely unaddressed. The people were never this badly off in the days of purported "strong-man" Marcos (who was whisked away to Hawaii by U.S. military forces). President Estrada was prevented from implementing his plans for improving the lot of his people by Edsa II, which installed Arroyo as the de facto ruler.

Faced with an apparent choice between either acquiescence to Arroyo's wrongful actions or yet another "People Power" solution—both unconstitutional—another solution is needed.

We are pleased to be able to offer our readers the following insightful analysis by Tribune columnist Francisco S. Tatad.

[QUOTING:]

WE NEED A 'THIRD WAY' OUT OF THE CRISIS

By Francisco S. Tatad
6/20/04

As everyone here knows, the Philippines, like India, recently held its national elections. But unlike India, which completed the process with flying colors, the Philippines is still canvassing the returns, five weeks after the voting. We now have the longest presidential election on record.

The Arroyo administration and its supporters have blamed all this on the opposition. They say President Arroyo has won, therefore the opposition must now concede, even before the national canvass, which they say is a mere formality, could proclaim the winner. The opposition, on the other hand, is convinced that Fernando Poe, Jr. has won, except that Mrs. Arroyo is doing everything to alter the result.

The opposition is eager to prove its charges of massive fraud. But the Congress canvass committee has ruled that the national canvass is neither the place nor the time to do so. Thus, there has been no opportunity to show the unexplained discrepancies between the votes as they originally appear in the election returns at precinct level and the votes as they finally appear in the provincial or city certificates of canvass. If at all, these discrepancies are simply "noted", but the flawed results are validated anyway.

Neither has there been an opportunity to examine how a country of 82 million people, with a 2.3 percent population growth rate, could have grown from 33 million voters in 2001 to 43.5 million in 2004, or how the historic average electoral turnout of 65 percent could suddenly shoot up on a stormy day to 85 percent, going up to 100 percent in some administration-controlled areas, with all the votes going to Mrs. Arroyo, and zero vote to all the other presidential candidates. In one precinct in Isulan, Sultan Kudarat, for instance, out of 300 registered voters, 300 voted, 300 ballots were found inside the ballot box, but 1,041 votes were listed for Mrs. Arroyo.

Having prevented the presentation of evidence in open canvass, the administration and its allies now put out big newspaper ads to say while the elections had been far from perfect, there is no proof of massive fraud, and the tainted results should now be accepted as the true expression of the people’s will. It is a scene out of George Orwell and Franz Kafka.

Under the Constitution, June 30 is the date the President-elect assumes office.

Failure to proclaim a winner before then could mean a serious constitutional crisis. But even if Mrs. Arroyo were to be proclaimed before then, and her allies in Congress are determined to do so, she would have no chance of claiming a clear mandate.

A mandate would have to take into account the three million or so voters, beginning with KNP senatorial candidate Amina Rasul, who had been disenfranchised, and the four or five million fictitious voters that had been added to the voters’ list. The opposition can show, through official records, that in Mindanao alone, 1.7 million votes had been added, through double registration and the use of fake precincts.

Finally, will the other presidential candidates concede? Poe will most probably not, and Bro. Eddie Villanueva will only concede that he had lost, but will not say to whom he had lost. There is no chance then for Mrs. Arroyo to govern, under those circumstances.

It is painfully clear that, far from unifying the divided Filipino nation, the elections have divided it even more deeply; that the process meant to save democracy has destroyed it instead. The elections damaged everything they touched. The Commission on Elections, the National Citizens Movement for Free Elections or Namfrel, which was first organized in the 1950s as a citizens’ watchdog, the military, the police, the teachers who were deputized for election duties, the mass media, and the polling institutions—all these have been tarnished.

In a word, there was a failure of elections in the Philippines. The crisis is grave, although largely misunderstood and misreported. There persist talks of a possible military coup. That is not a solution at all, and must be rejected; it will not fly either at home or abroad. But, if at the end of the day, no clear mandate emerges, then Filipinos must be prepared to consider other choices. A third way must be found, anchored on the people’s constituent power and sovereign will, the rule of law, and the moral authority of those who would be called upon to lead.

[END QUOTING]
“Force is not of God.” We do not see that an unconstitutional military takeover is in the best interests of the people and we do not condone that resolution. At the same time, we believe that the Rule of Law must be upheld.

Is there a peaceful solution that would measure and honor the sovereign will of the people? The word “Referendum” comes to mind. Common sense, however, dictates that such a referendum should not be conducted and supervised by an interested party, such as the existing government or its agencies.

Since the right of Filipinos to peaceably assemble in protest has been infringed upon by FORCE of law, perhaps a “Petition for Redress of Grievances” could set things in motion. Somehow, without force, without acquiescence—God wins!

‘Rule of Law’ Answers: ‘Unquestionably Elected’

We are once again thankful to have permission to present the writings of “Rule of Law” expert, Alan F. Paguia, whose devotion to the Constitution and people of the Philippines has resulted in his suspension from the practice of law. We are sure our readers will agree that his suspension has in no way affected his ability to cut through to the very core of the issues facing his beloved nation.

In particular, we direct readers’ attention to the final sentence of Mr. Paguia’s writing of June 25, 2004, where he answers the question of who shall lead the Philippines:

“One of three: The questionably ‘elected’; The questionably ‘unelected’; or The unquestionably elected.”

To arrive at “The unquestionably elected” we must consider the fact that President Estrada was unconstitutionally removed from office by Edsa II. “Every problem has at least one solution”—and perhaps this solution is the best of all from a constitutional perspective.

ECCLESIASTICS IN POLITICS
By Alan F. Paguia
6/14/04

Cardinal Jaime Sin and Manila Archbishop Gaudencio Rosales are concededly popular religious leaders. They are intelligent and patriotic. They have contributed so much of their lives for the good of our countrymen. We respect them.

Whether we like it or not, they are among the influential leaders of Philippine society. What they think, say and do affect our people, either for good or otherwise.

When they think, we presume the best intentions. When they speak, we presume the truth. When they act, we presume the common good.

With leaders like them, it would seem reasonable to assume that our people always had a good fighting chance to improve the quality of our society and government. And we have many other leaders like them.

The question is: Has the quality of our society and government improved with their kind of leadership?

Are there less bad people in our society now than yesterday?

Are there less bad government officials now than yesterday?

If the answers are in the affirmative, then our leaders have been effective. If the answers are in the negative, then our leaders have been ineffective.

A few days ago, Archbishop Rosales publicly blamed Filipino politicians for being the “greatest destructive element” in our country since 1946. It sounded consistent with Cardinal Sin’s public pronouncements against certain Filipino politicians during Edsa I in 1986 and Edsa II in 2001.

Both prelates appear to have targeted “Filipino politicians” as the principal cause of our people’s political and economic suffering.

Who are these “Filipino politicians” they are pointing at? There are two groups involved.

First, the elected or former elected government officials—President, Vice President, senators, members of the House of Representatives, governors, vice governors, provincial board members, city/municipal mayors, vice mayors, councilors, barangay captains and barangay councilors. We must add those who tried but failed to get themselves elected.

Second, the political appointees—those who hold or have held public office: (a) at the pleasure of the appointing authority, like the Cabinet secretaries; (b) for the principal benefit—not of the Filipino people but—of a political cabal, like the current justices of the Supreme Court or some former Presidents. In addition, we ought to mention those who tried but failed to get themselves appointed in the same context.

What is the truth about Filipino politicians?

First. They are human beings who are as fallible as Archbishop Rosales and Cardinal Sin.

Second. Most of them are members of the same Catholic Church.

Third. Most of them were raised under the same Catholic faith.

Fourth. Many of them were educated in Catholic schools.

Fifth. Many of them are familiar with Catholic doctrines.

Sixth. Many of them regularly attend religious services.

Seventh. Many of them send their children to Catholic schools.

Eighth. Many of them are active members of Catholic organizations.

Ninth. Many of them regularly contribute considerable personal funds to the Catholic Church.

Tenth. Most of them fully respect Archbishop Rosales, Cardinal Sin, and the other leaders of the Catholic Church.

In other words, Filipino politicians have much in common with Archbishop Rosales and Cardinal Sin. Their common beliefs necessarily lead to common sentiments about Philippine society and government. That commonality is their bond.

They are parts of a whole. Where one goes, the other cannot be far behind. What one does is necessarily the shared responsibility of the other. One cannot be praised without the other sharing the praise. Consequently, one cannot be blamed without the other being blamed as well.

Thus, if it is true that Filipino politicians have been the “greatest destructive element” in our country since 1946, then Archbishop Rosales, Cardinal Sin and their colleagues must share the distinction. After all, they have had much more opportunities in leading or misleading our people than the Filipino politicians who are now at the end of their pointing fingers.

Moreover, why should reference be addressed vaguely to “Filipino politicians” in general? Why not name names so the Filipino people will know who to watch for or against in the present and in the future? Is Archbishop Rosales more concerned with being polite and diplomatic with politicians than with being honest and specific with the Filipino people?

We know where Cardinal Sin was during Edsa II. We know what he did. He conspired with Corazon Aquino, Fidel Ramos and Chief Justice Hilario Davide, Jr. in proclaiming Gloria Arroyo as President over the constitutional incumbency of President Joseph “Erap”

Estrada.
Where were the good leaders of the Catholic Church then? Did they support the unconstitutional actions of Cardinal Sin? Did they bother to check whether the removal of Erap was constitutional?

Where are they now? Have they bothered to check the truth of Erap’s unconstitutional ouster from the presidency? Have they bothered to check the truth of Mrs. Arroyo’s unconstitutional presidency?

Have they bothered to check the truth of Erap’s unconstitutional incarceration?

Or have they become like the “Filipino politicians” who choose which truth is safe to discuss and fight for?

We concede it is not safe to discuss the unconstitutional act committed by the justices of the Supreme Court against Erap.

A lawyer can get indefinitely suspended from the practice of law for that.

But if that lawyer happens to be a Catholic who believes the truth must be told regardless of the consequences, would he not deserve the moral support of the leaders of his church?

But never mind that. We understand how difficult it is to have the truth survive in politics. It is as difficult as surviving the politics of truth.

And so we have ecclesiastics in politics. Does it mean we have more truth in politics, or, more politics in truth?

NEGATIVE DEMOCRACY

By Alan F. Paguia
6/18/04

Democracy is the rule of the majority. It is either positive or negative.

It is positive when the majority is reasonable. It is negative when the majority is unreasonable.

The majority is reasonable when it yields to correct reasoning. It is unreasonable when it yields to incorrect reasoning.

What then is correct or incorrect reasoning?

Correct reasoning is a process which leads to a conclusion that is dictated by the force of truth. Incorrect reasoning is a process which leads to a conclusion that is dictated by the truth of force.

How do these concepts apply to the Filipino people?

First. What happened right after the May 10 elections? The Filipino people were rudely surprised by the sudden increase of prices of basic commodities way beyond the reach of the Filipino masa. According to Mrs. Arroyo, the reality is that our people have been the beneficiaries of her administration’s successful economic programs. Is that conclusion dictated by the force of truth? Obviously not. Her false conclusion is dictated by the truth of force, considering her administration is backed up by the military and the national police.

Second. Official statistics show about five million Filipino workers are currently unemployed. Again, according to Mrs. Arroyo, her administration had generated enough jobs in answer to the unemployment problem. Is that conclusion dictated by the force of truth? Plainly not. It is dictated by the truth of force in favor of her administration, at the expense of the Filipino people.

Third. The Arroyo administration had assumed the P500 billion debt of the National Power Corporation (Napocor). That means the debt shall be paid by the Filipino people. Obviously, the monstrous debt was caused by mismanagement. Yet, without as much as even a pinch of an effort to identify and prosecute those who are guilty of the mismanagement, Mrs. Arroyo willy-nilly passed the burden to our people who end up the victims of the unidentified grafters. According to Mrs. Arroyo, her high education in economics and experience in government makes her a better leader than President Joseph “Erap” Estrada or presidential candidate, Fernando Poe, Jr. (FPJ). Is that conclusion dictated by the force of truth? Obviously not. Nobody can be worse than the worst. And in spite of all that, all we can do is voice out our complaint as our lungs can endure, while Mrs. Arroyo gets away with the false conclusion dictated by the truth of her military supporters’ force.

Fourth. As to the ongoing congressional canvass of the presidential and vice presidential votes, the opposition has presented authentic documents showing massive and systematic fraud had been committed to favor Mrs. Arroyo and her runningmate. She has not made any categorical denial nor any counterclaim to the effect that the opposition is lying although she had ample opportunity to do so. The necessary implication is that the opposition is telling the truth. On her part, she simply concludes the opposition should raise the matter before the Supreme Court whose members are her either grateful appointees or co-conspirators at Edsa II. Is that conclusion dictated by the force of truth? No. It is dictated by the truth of her military supporters’ force.

The negative democracy under Mrs. Arroyo’s administration is dangerously testing our people’s faith in the rule of the majority. Under the prevailing circumstances, a showdown may be inevitable.

Are the Filipino people afraid of Mrs. Arroyo? Of course not.

Unlike Erap and FPJ, it is Mrs. Arroyo who is afraid of the Filipino people.

THE ARROYO DICTATORSHIP

By Alan F. Paguia
6/21/04

What is the basic problem of the Filipino people? The non-satisfaction of their needs and wants. Why is it basic?

Unless this problem is solved, the solution of their other problems would be meaningless.

In positive terms, this means that the irreducible common goal of the Filipino people is the satisfaction of their basic needs and wants.

It would follow that the Philippine government was created by the Filipino people for the same irreducible purpose.

Yet, nowhere in the Constitution is this clearly stated.

Consequently, the people appear to have a somewhat hazy understanding of what government or the Constitution is all about. What they see are general statements that can be applied or construed to either promote or defeat the best interests of the people.

What is wrong with that? The Constitution and government, as instruments of the people, must be uncompromisingly pro-people. Otherwise, such instruments could be used to defeat the very purpose of their creation by defeating the best interests of their creator.

How does the Constitution state the purposes for which government was established?

The preamble appears to distinguish between the general purpose and three specific purposes.

The general purpose is supposedly for government to “embody our ideals and aspirations”.

The specific purposes are supposedly for government to: (1) “promote the common good”, (2) “conserve and develop our patrimony”, and (3) “secure to ourselves and our posterity the blessings of independence and democracy”.

Plainly, there is no clear statement that government was established for the satisfaction of the Filipino people’s basic needs and wants.

It is important to state it in this simple way. Why? So every Filipino can readily understand what their Constitution and government are for. It serves as the true test for determining the efficacy or inefficacy of government.

If there is satisfaction of the people’s basic needs and wants, then government is effective and successful. If there is non-satisfaction, then government is ineffective and a failure. It is that simple.

We must remember, however, the two senses in which the term “government” is ordinarily used. The first is government in theory where government is a mere set of principles and official duties. The second is government in practice where government is a group of human beings who were elected or appointed to perform official duties under the law and the Constitution. The second is more accurately referred to as the “administration”.

Thus, efficacy or inefficacy, success or failure are more accurately applicable to the “administration”, not “government”.

So it is that the Philippine government is clearly distinguishable from, say, the Gloria Arroyo administration. The theory can be either successfully or unsuccessfully implemented. The implementor is the “administration”. So that if the implementation is a failure, it is the “administration” that failed, not the “government”.

Has the Arroyo administration succeeded or failed? The answer would depend on whether it has satisfied the basic needs and wants of the Filipino people.

Has the Arroyo administration satisfied the basic needs and wants of our people? It would seem not under the prevailing circumstances where more and more Filipino families appear to be getting poorer with each day. Therefore, the Arroyo administration has failed the Filipino people.

There is something else that ought to be said in addition to that failure. It would seem the Arroyo administration does not even qualify to be referred to as the Arroyo “administration”. Why? Mrs. Arroyo was not elected nor appointed President when she and her Edsa II gang ousted President Joseph “Erap” Estrada from office. She grabbed the presidential power from Erap. Being unconstitutional, the power grab would necessarily not qualify to be referred to as “administration” in the legal sense. It would appear to be more properly referred to as the Arroyo dictatorship.

We should not wonder then why Mrs. Arroyo could not satisfy the basic needs and wants of our people. She had unconstitutionally taken over the Erap presidency. She started wrong. Our people want things done right in accordance with the Constitution. That is the reason why our people find it very difficult to accept her regime. Dictatorship is undemocratic. Therefore, it is unconstitutional.

Our people want constitutional procedure. She followed an unconstitutional procedure.

Our people wanted Erap to exercise presidential authority and power from June 30, 1998 to June 30, 2004. She grabbed the power on Jan. 20, 2001.

Our people wanted Erap to serve as Commander-in-Chief over all subordinate military officials. She connived with certain subordinate military officials like Generals Angelo Reyes and Panfilo Lacson in breaking the constitutional chain of command.

Our people want constitutional stability. She destabilized the constitutional system by forcibly removing the duly constituted Erap presidency.

Our people want respect for due process of law. She disrespected it by having her Edsa II co-conspirator justices of the Supreme Court self-servingly declare constitutional in their favor their own conspiracy with her against the Erap presidency.

Our people wanted their 1998 electoral mandate obeyed by all. She disobeyed it by imposing herself on our people without the benefit of elections or a valid constitutional succession.

Our people want to be clarified about the true constitutional status of the Erap presidency. She refuses to clarify and instead points to the lutong makaw decision in Estrada vs Arroyo to justify her illegal regime.

Under the Constitution, the Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) is the protector of the people. But how can the AFP be the protector of the Filipino people if it is acting as protector of the unconstitutional Arroyo dictatorship?

THE FILIPINO PEOPLE’S NIGHTMARE
By Alan F. Paguia
6/25/04

The National Power Corp. (Napocor) is bleeding the Filipino people dry. It is a corporate “Dracula” who is nightmarishly sucking the blood of our people 24 hours a day.

From the point of view of our people, what are the irreducible facts? There are two.

First. The ordinary Filipino worker earns about P300 a day. If unemployed, he must earn his family’s daily survival money some other way, or he suffers with his family the agony of material deprivation. Records show there are currently about five million unemployed Filipino workers.

Second. The Napocor is losing P100 billion of public funds a year. That is more than P273 million or about $5 million a day.

According to Mrs. Arroyo’s Energy Secretary Vincent Perez, Napocor’s losses balloon more and more with each passing year. He has reportedly stated this is one of the factors that pushed government to assume P500 billion of Napocor’s P1.3-trillion debt. He was quoted during the inauguration of the Luzon Hydro Friendship Bridge at Alilem, Ilocos Sur last June 17, as stating: “In order to seriously proceed with the privatization of Napocor’s assets, which will be the long-term solution to solve the debt and losses of Napocor, the only way we could proceed with the privatization is by transferring the debts of Napocor to the national government.”

In other words, Napocor’s debts total a whopping P1.3 trillion... increasing with each day. But who owns Napocor? The Filipino people. Therefore, Napocor’s debt of P1.3 trillion is the debt of the Filipino people. How much more in interests and penalties or other fees have to be paid in addition to that principal? The Filipino people are undoubtedly entitled to know.

According to Mrs. Arroyo’s alter ego, the national government has assumed P500 billion of Napocor’s P1.3-trillion debt. But who owns the national government? The Filipino people. Therefore, Mrs. Arroyo made the Filipino people assume the P500 billion portion of the P1.3-trillion debt. What is wrong with that? Two things.

First. Mrs. Arroyo has not explained nor justified to the Filipino people how the P1.3-trillion debt was incurred and why they should feel happy paying it.

Second. Mrs. Arroyo’s decision to transfer the component debt of P500 billion to the national government is a misrepresentation. The transfer is not real. It is a mere play of words. Whether it is P500 billion or P1.3 trillion of debts that either the Napocor or the national government had incurred or assumed, the liability to pay ultimately falls on the Filipino people and their yet unborn generations.

In sum, the losers are the Filipino people, not Mrs. Arroyo and her family who do not have to worry about providing themselves with food on a day-to-day basis.

What questions then should the Filipino people ask in order to understand Napocor’s P1.3-trillion debt?

The questions would be best grouped into the past, the present, and the future.

As to the past: (1) When did Napocor begin to incur losses? (2) What contracts were involved? (3) Who negotiated those contracts? (4) Who were the signatories? (5) How much was involved for each contract? (6) What caused the losses? (7) Could the losses have been avoided through reasonable foresight on the part of Napocor? (8) Who were directly or indirectly responsible for the losses? (9) When did Napocor initially recognize the inevitable incurring of losses? (10) What preventive or remedial actions should have been but not taken and why? (11) Was any official investigation conducted to pinpoint who were responsible for the losses? If yes, what were the results and what appropriate action did Napocor take? If no, why not? (12) What actions have been taken by Napocor and the national government to protect the best interests of the Filipino people and what were the results?

As to the present: (1) What is Napocor doing to solve the problem? (2) What are Napocor and the national government doing to protect and serve the best interests of the Filipino people under the premises, and what are the results? (3) Who are responsible for taking the appropriate corrective measures?

As to the future: (1) What do Napocor and the national government intend to do to protect and serve the best interests of the Filipino people? (2) Aside from the Filipino people, who stands to profit from such intended actions? (3) How much will their profits be? (4) Will the national government prosecute all those who may be found criminally liable for Napocor’s losses?

The right of the Filipino people to know the answers to the foregoing questions necessarily creates the

Filipino Poverty Issue Must Be Addressed Soon

How serious is the poverty issue in the Philippines? For the answer, we turn to excerpts from an article written by Alejandro Lichauco for the Tribune, 6/24/04.

[QUOTING:]

Save the people from what?

Save them from a life that can only be a living hell because that’s what it means to be poor in this country. It means parents having to sell their kidneys to buy that needed medicine for an ailing child; of having to sell their children, and even killing them before the parents commit suicide, because life has become unbearable and without hope of having to induce daughters to prostitution because the family must survive; of having to abandon home and family to be a slave abroad because that’s where life and survival lies.

...[T]his living hell is the product of a political system which compels the nation’s political leaders—if they are to survive their petty political wars, as the last elections have made only too clear—to plunder the nation and even allow foreign interests to plunder it. ...The politicians, to compound their plunder, have consciously allowed international interests to plunder the nation too, and to keep it perpetually enslaved financially. That’s the reason that since 1962, when the nation was first placed under the supervision of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), we have run a foreign debt of $60 billion without—repeat, without—having anything to show for it except the prospect of more debt and more poverty. Whatever production base we had 40 years ago—and that was the most dynamic production base in Southeast Asia then—has been virtually wiped out by 40 years of import liberalization and 40 years of continuous devaluation. All because a succession of civilian government, yielded to international demands that our government abstain from the exercise of its sovereign responsibility to protect the domestic market and local industries, and to ensure the stability of the national currency.

The result? We haven’t only failed to move from the agricultural age to the industrial age, in stark contrast to what our neighbors have done. We have obligation on the part of Mrs. Arroyo as the one claiming command responsibility to give the truthful, the wholly truthful, and nothing but the truthful answers.

Will she or will she not?

That would be for the Filipino people to see. If she does, the Filipino people win. If she does not, the Filipino people lose.

In the meantime, the Napocor debt is ticking like a time bomb with every breath taken by the reader of this article at the rate of more than P11 million per hour, P189 thousand per minute, or P3 thousand per second—charged to the account of our beloved people.

Many Filipino families do not have enough money with which to satisfy their daily needs. Yet, they find themselves haplessly tied to Napocor’s P1.3-trillion debt.

We ought to weep and pray to Almighty God for help. But we must also help ourselves.

And who should lead us? One of three: The questionably “elected”; The questionably “unelected”; or The unquestionably elected.

virtually liquidated the nation’s agricultural base even as we have watched the peso-dollar rate soar from P2:$1 to its current P56:$1.

...Forty years ago, the poor did not have to worry about the cost of electricity and water. Today, those have become items of luxury.

A year or so ago, the perceptive Lucio Tan, asked what he thought about the economic situation, described it as “hopeless” and went as far as to predict that in several years we could see peso-dollar rate at P120:$1.

...[T]he central flaw of the political system isn’t the corruption it breeds, but, the treason it compels. The nation’s politicians by and large are compelled to betray the republic to international interests because those interests are in a position to influence the elections in a decisive manner. International interests control the nation’s economic elite which in turn control two strategic areas of the political economy: the financial system and the information-communications industry. Beyond that, international interests are openly known to exert a meaningful, if not decisive, influence on the Catholic Church. And if you want proof of that, ask why is it the leaders and spokesmen of the Church haven’t questioned the role of the IMF and the World Bank in the shaping of the nation’s policies? Why is it the institutional Church continues to harp on graft and corruption as the principal, if not only, source of the nation’s poverty instead of harping as well on the economic policies and programs sponsored by the nation’s technocrats, many of whom eventually wind up in the payroll either of the IMF or the World Bank or the World Trade Organization?

As early as 1988, an in-house study of the IMF acknowledged that the policies and programs forced by that institution on the Philippines since 1962—more particularly devaluation—have aggravated the poverty of the Philippine poor instead of alleviating it. Those policies are the basic reason that over the last 40 years Filipinos have become poorer and why poverty in this country is fast turning into hunger.

WHILE THE MOST NOTABLE ONE MISSING
VISIT IS TO THE PHILIPPINES. No visit from the new head of the IMF? Can’t get much more negative than THAT, my friends.

On to other “incredible” watchings: Note that the head of Bank Sentral, who still refers to itself as the Central Bank but truly is NOT, plans to step down in 2005 and says his successor will have to handle the “international money laundering” problems. The Philippines is still in the high position of “bad dudes”.

The elections were such a fraud but the “democracy” as practiced in this place (EVERY PLACE) is so corrupt they even tell on themselves as they vote criminals IN and all things relative to truth—OUT.

WE, SORRY TO SAY, MUST WORK IN WHATEVER EVOLVES—SO KEEP ON JOGGING. All I can do is run interference and point the way so pay attention and go back to paragraph three and STUDY AND THINK!

It is going to take all the force available to get into that bank and count the hidden secrets. Moreover,
I suggest you get ON WITH IT and stop waiting for another month, another meeting or another day.

I ask that the articles on the topic of the Philippines as offered by our compatriots and counterpart journalists be studied carefully, for you must use these resources if there is to be worthy CHANGE. Just changing diapers does NOT stop the diarrhea or hemorrhage. THIS NATION IS DYING!

Why would this maladjusted and unacceptable “false President” GMA have to go to her criminal friends in Cebu to be inaugurated? Quezon City-Metro Manila is THE CAPITAL of the Philippines and where it is appropriate for inauguration of a new President and Administration! Is there something so wrong with this picture as to shock even your “democracy” advocates?

These are the same liars who mislead you into thinking some mortal good man died for YOUR SINS!
Try it on for “reason”!

No, it is NOT over so keep those heads DOWN, lips quiet and keep pushing our wagon until we get out of this bog-hole waiting for “time” to simply pass in some way.

I suggest you round up every party you can find who ever got an “authorization” from one Tallano for anything and let us get on with getting this thing done, please.

VK DURHAM

The same can apply to VK Durham, et al., but we are beyond that necessity in this place and we are not even in consideration of the U.S. and CSEML holdings
AT THIS TIME.

By the way, to you inquiring minds—we incorporated one entity, IAIC—JUST TO KEEP VK

We certainly are interested in VK’s major scam of $14 Trillion “debt-swap”—plus $1 and ½ Billion for herself is “interesting” and yea, all that from a non-existent “Trust” of some kind? Oh, I don’t think so, friends. She is still trying to filch Russell Herman’s pension and benefits TO WHICH SHE HAS NO SHRED OF RIGHT OR STANDING. And, moreover, she tells it on herself over and over again ad nauseam—and yes indeed, we will print it for your name of our game.

HEALTH AND YOU

My goodness, I watch you play at your nonsensical “gotcha” games and shiver in my own boots. You try to avoid a “spoonful of sugar” to save a waist-line by using poison and buying the “waste—line”. STOP IT!

The money magnates are now going to put aspartame water into your schools. Why not just kill your children rapidly than destroy them in this manner—BRAIN FIRST?

I ask that we offer the “Honey and Cinnamon” article NEXT, right here. As lead-in however, I ask the small insert from ALTERNATIVES be offered.
There is such an increase of diabetes in the world as to astound any mortal and quite a few angels—not to even mention obesity which is the new “population control” disease.

I am first going to offer the “Cinnamon” solution before I even add in the “Honey”, Honey.

Oh you didn’t KNOW? Oh well, surely you know all about Aspartame, Equal, and the other incredibly dangerous (to your health) substitutes from the Chemical houses. So be it.

“A HALF-TEASPOONFUL OF CINNAMON HELPS THE GLUCOSE GO DOWN”

[QUOTING from ALTERNATIVES, June 2004,
pg. 92:]

One gram (slightly less than a half-teaspoon) of cinnamon per day was given to 60 volunteers with type 2 diabetes. In just 40 days, this small amount of cinnamon reduced fasting glucose levels anywhere from 18 to 29 percent, triglyceride levels 23 to 30 percent, LDL cholesterol levels 7 to 27 percent, and total cholesterol 12 to 26 percent. No advantages or greater improvements were found when larger doses were given. [H: This may well be so but added to honey, the benefits are instantaneous as to energy increase and other benefits which come directly from natural, especially wild-dark, honey.
So be patient and read the article following this insert.] Also, when the participants stopped taking the cinnamon, their blood sugar levels and other readings began to return to former levels. (J Agri

Food Chem 04:52(1) (Diabetes Care 03;26(12):3215-8)

If you have diabetes or insulin resistance (which can result in having Syndrome X, a pre-diabetic condition characterized by added fat around the waist, high blood pressure, elevated triglycerides, and/or cholesterol and glucose intolerance), you would be foolish to overlook the benefits of adding ½ teaspoon of cinnamon to your diet each day.

The explosion in diabetes is being fueled by several factors, and while it can be stopped, I don’t see that occurring within the general population. The most significant risk factor for developing type 2 diabetes appears to be that of being overweight. [D: OUCH!! And no, friends, it is a fact that if EJ and/or I lost only 15 pounds (off each) we would be considered “anorexic” but of proper weight. It is “around the waist” that is troubling and it does not just “go away” with wishing and chips.]

Researchers monitored several factors and their relationship to developing type 2 diabetes in 84,941 women from 1980 to 1996. They concentrated on five well-known risk factors: weight, diet, exercise, smoking, and alcohol. While all of these factors played a significant role, the most significant was their body mass index (BMI), a measurement of obesity based on height and weight.

(To find your BMI, do the following: first, divide your weight in pounds by the square of your height in inches, then multiply the result by 703.)

This study found that the ideal BMI was 23.0. As this number increased, so did the risk of developing type 2 diabetes. This study also found that individuals who had only moderate sugar intake, a low intake of trans-fatty acids, a high fiber intake, and low saturated fat intake, and who exercised at least seven hours per week, consumed a moderate amount of alcohol, and didn’t smoke had a 90 percent lower risk of type 2 diabetes than those who didn’t have this profile. (N Engl J Med 01;345:790-797)

Besides having to make significant lifestyle changes, there are other underlying reasons I don’t think the general public will take the necessary steps to stop this epidemic of diabetes.

For one, caring for and treating diabetes has created a HUGE MARKET WORTH BILLIONS. New oral medications, insulin preparations, insulin deliver devices, and blood glucose-monitoring systems are being created and brought to the market every day. Those selling these items will be promoting them as the answer. And it will be far easier to sell the idea of checking blood sugar with an in-home laser monitor and then taking only one pill or a quick, painless injection each day than to convince someone to drastically change eating and exercise habits.

But treating diabetes doesn’t cure diabetes. It may prolong life and even postpone many of the disease’s associated problems. Still, simply living with a controlled form of the disease takes its toll.

Research shows that even with the best treatment, the reduction in life expectancy for those with diabetes is astounding. And the decrease in their quality of life is even more pronounced.

Men now diagnosed with type 2 diabetes at age 40 will live 11.6 less years than someone without the disease and, based on quality-adjusted life years, they will lose 18.6 years.

Women fare even worse. Women diagnosed at age 40 will lose 14.3 years of their life and 22 quality-adjusted life-years. (JAMA 03:290 (14):1884-1890)

[H: NO, WE ARE NOT OFFERING MEDICINE IN ANY FORM OR SHAPE. WE ARE OFFERING YOU INFORMATION

PUBLISHED AND PROBABLY YOU WILL HAVE “MISSED” IT.]

[END QUOTING]

Now read on if you want some more real “skinny” on the subject which should be shouted from roof-tops or at least in a “NEWS DESK” but we are limited in both input for same and space for such luxuries.

You who endure stomach discomfort on a chronic basis are going to be shocked at how easy it is to attend such discomfort without those expensive anti-acids or even that old “soda” home remedy. You can also live a bit longer with some quality to your energy-life and indeed that is from intaking purely natural energy food—honey. FATIGUE has become the most debilitating one item in your modern lives and it comes with its debilitating “depression syndrome”. Well, YOUR CHOICE—we practice NO medicine.

By the way: We can offer more suggestions on GOOD AND UNBELIEVABLE IMPROVEMENT TO HEALTH IF YOU JUST EAT SEVERAL CANS (AT LEAST TWO PER WEEK) OF “SARDINES”. You will get a little iridium in addition which makes the world go ’round quite a lot better. We will try to get to that topic as well in the weeks to come.

When considering honey I suggest the wild-DARK variety. Tupelo honey is probably best as to variety of natural elements but is, at the least, twice to three times as expensive. I would suggest, further, that if you decide to use it that you save it for special and use the regular commercial dark honey for “every use”. This is simply to save funds which is also a consideration in your world of graft and avarice.

Try cappuccino tea or coffee—and add cinnamon. It is tasty and helps the whole go down. Cappuccino comes from Capuchin monks who drank their beverages, yea, even coffee, with honey and cream. You can season it any way you like it and tea is especially wonderful with cinnamon, lemon/orange, and HONEY. Tip of the day to you!

You with spelt mush for breakfast—put honey and cinnamon into the mix and “run” face the world and whatever it brings instead of your “planned” events. May you eat well for the fuel of life is what keeps the old body going!

I ask that the “Honey and Cinnamon” article be added here and the writing closed off.

Thank you.
[QUOTING:]

FACTS ON HONEY AND CINNAMON

It is found that mixture of Honey and Cinnamon cures most of the diseases. Honey is produced in most of the countries of the world. Ayurvedic as well as Yunani medicine have been using honey as a vital medicine for centuries.

Scientists of today also accept honey as a “Ram Ban” (very effective) medicine for all kinds of diseases. Honey can be used without any side effects for any kind of diseases. Today’s science says that even though honey is sweet, if taken in the right dosage as a medicine, it does not harm diabetic patients. Weekly World News, a magazine in Canada, on its issue dated 17 January, 1995 has given the following list of diseases that can be cured by Honey and Cinnamon as researched by western scientists.

HEART DISEASES: Make a paste of honey and cinnamon powder, apply on bread, chapatti, or other bread, instead of jelly and jam and eat it regularly for breakfast. It reduces the cholesterol in the arteries and saves the patient from heart attack. Also those who already had an attack, if they do this process daily, they are kept miles away from the next attack.

Regular use of the above process relieves loss of breath and strengthens the heartbeat. In America and Canada, various nursing homes have treated patients successfully and have found that as we age the arteries and veins lose their flexibility and get clogged; honey and cinnamon revitalizes the arteries and veins.

INSECT BITES: Take one part honey to two parts of lukewarm water and add a small teaspoon of cinnamon powder, make a paste and massage it on the itching part of the body slowly. It is noticed that the pain recedes within a minute or two.

ARTHRITIS: Arthritis patients may take daily, morning and night, one cup of hot water with two spoons of honey and one small teaspoon of cinnamon powder. If taken regularly even chronic arthritis can be cured.

In a recent research conducted at the Copenhagen University, it was found that when the doctors treated their patients with a mixture of one tablespoon Honey and half teaspoon Cinnamon powder before breakfast, they found that within a week out of the 200 people so treated practically 73 patients were totally relieved of pain and within a month, mostly all the patients who could not walk or move around because of arthritis started walking without pain.

HAIR LOSS: Those suffering from hair loss or baldness, may apply a paste of hot olive oil, one tablespoon of honey, one teaspoon of cinnamon powder before bath and keep it for approx. 15 min. and then wash the hair. It was found to be effective even if kept on for 5 minutes.

BLADDER INFECTIONS: Take two tablespoons of honey and one teaspoon of cinnamon powder in a glass of lukewarm water and drink it. It destroys the germs in the bladder.

TOOTHACHE: Make a paste of one teaspoon of cinnamon powder and five teaspoons of honey and apply on the aching tooth. This may be applied 3 times a day till the tooth stops aching.

CHOLESTEROL: Two tablespoons of honey and three teaspoons of Cinnamon Powder mixed in 16 ounces of tea water, given to a cholesterol patient, was found to reduce the level of cholesterol in the blood by 10% within 2 hours. As mentioned for arthritic patients, if taken 3 times a day, any Chronic cholesterol is cured. As per information received in the said journal, pure honey taken with food daily relieves complaints of cholesterol.

COLDS: Those suffering from common or severe colds should take one tablespoon lukewarm honey with ¼ spoon cinnamon powder daily for 3 days. This process will cure most chronic cough, cold and clear the sinuses.

INFERTILITY: Yunani and Ayurvedic Medicine have been using honey for thousands of years to strengthen the semen of men. If impotent men regularly take two tablespoon of honey before going to sleep, their problem will be solved. In China, Japan and Far-East countries, women, who do not conceive and need to strengthen the uterus, have been taking cinnamon powder for centuries. Women who cannot conceive may take a pinch of cinnamon powder in half teaspoon of honey and apply it on the gums frequently throughout the day, so that it slowly mixes with the saliva and enters the body. A couple in Maryland, USA, had no children for 14 years and had lost hope of having a child of their own. When told about this process, husband and wife started taking honey and cinnamon as stated above; the wife conceived after a few months and had twins at full term.

UPSET STOMACH: Honey taken with cinnamon powder cures stomachache and also clears stomach ulcers from the root.

GAS: According to the studies done in India & Japan, it is revealed that if honey is taken with cinnamon powder the stomach is relieved of gas.

IMMUNE SYSTEM: Daily use of honey and cinnamon powder strengthens the immune system and protects the body from bacteria and viral attacks. Scientists have found that honey has various vitamins and iron in large amounts. Constant use of honey strengthens the white blood corpuscles to fight bacteria and viral diseases.

INDIGESTION: Cinnamon powder sprinkled on two tablespoons of honey taken before food, relieves acidity and digests the heaviest of meals.

INFLUENZA: A scientist in Spain has proved that honey contains a natural ingredient, which kills the influenza germs and saves the patient from flu.

LONGEVITY: Tea made with honey and cinnamon powder, when taken regularly arrests the ravages of old age. Take 4 spoons of honey, 1 spoon of cinnamon powder and 3 cups of water and boil to make like tea. Drink ¼ cup, 3 to 4 times a day. It keeps the skin fresh and soft and arrests old age. Life spans also increases and even a 100 year old, starts performing the chores of a 20-year-old.

PIMPLES: Three tablespoons of Honey and one teaspoon of cinnamon powder paste. Apply this paste on the pimples before sleeping and wash it next morning with warm water. If done daily for two weeks, it removes pimples from the root.

SKIN INFECTIONS: Applying honey and cinnamon powder in equal parts on the affected parts cures eczema, ringworm and all types of skin infections.

WEIGHT LOSS: Daily in the morning ½ hour before breakfast on an empty stomach and at night before sleeping, drink honey and cinnamon powder boiled in one-cup water. If taken regularly it reduces the weight of even the most obese person.

Also, drinking of this mixture regularly does not allow the fat to accumulate in the body even though the person may eat a high calorie diet.

CANCER: Recent research in Japan and Australia has revealed that advanced cancers of the stomach and bones have been cured successfully. Patients suffering from these kinds of cancers should daily take one tablespoon of honey with one teaspoon of cinnamon powder for one month 3 times a day.

FATIGUE: Recent studies have shown that the sugar content of honey is more helpful rather than being detrimental to the strength of the body. Senior citizens, who take honey and cinnamon power in equal parts, are more alert and flexible.

Dr. Milton who has done research says that a half tablespoon honey taken in a glass of water and sprinkled with cinnamon powder, taken daily after brushing and in the afternoon at about 3.00 p.m. when the vitality of the body starts to decrease, increases the vitality of the body within a week.

BAD BREATH: People of South America, first thing in the morning gargle with one teaspoon of honey and cinnamon powder mixed in hot water. So their breath stays fresh throughout the day.

HEARING LOSS: Daily morning and night honey and cinnamon powder taken in equal parts restore hearing.

Aspartame: Licensed To Kill Both Us And Our Children

ASPARTAME—ANXIETY, DEPRESSION AND SUICIDE AMONG CHILDREN

From Dr. Betty Martini
2/12/04

This information is presented FREE of all charge... and it is yours to use as you deem reasonable and fitting. [ED: We need no further invitation.]

This information will help answer a lot of questions as to why so many children are depressed and committing suicide.

Two-thirds of the population and 40% of the children in this country are using products with aspartame (NutraSweet/Equal/Spoonful/Canderel, Benevia, E951, etc.). It is a neurotoxic drug, a deadly chemical poison, and masquerading as an additive.

The 50% phenylalanine in it as an isolate is neurotoxic and goes directly into the brain. It lowers the seizure threshold and depletes serotonin. When you lower serotonin it triggers manic depression or bipolar, mood swings, anxiety, SUICIDAL TENDENCIES, panic attacks, paranoia, hallucinations, etc. It also interacts with ALL antidepressants. In fact, it interacts with just about every drug used to treat the problems it causes. This is all discussed in the huge medical text, Aspartame Disease: An Ignored Epidemic by H. J. Roberts, M.D. www.sunsentpress.com or 1-800-827-7991.

The concern also in this country right now is obesity and diabetes. Aspartame is the cause of this in my opinion as it's a drug that makes you crave carbohydrates so you gain weight. See the protest of the National Soft Drink Association which is part of the congressional record—www.dorway.com. Also read Dr. Sandra Cabot's paper: Aspartame Makes you Fatter. The Trocho Study in 1998 showed the formaldehyde converted from the free methyl alcohol in aspartame accumulates in the cells and damages DNA with most toxicity in the liver. When the liver is this toxic it is even difficult to lose weight. It also showed substantial toxicity in the adipose tissue or fat cells. If you want to get fat, NutraSweet is where its at.

Dr. Roberts who wrote the medical text and declared aspartame disease to be a global plague is a diabetic specialist. He says aspartame can precipitate diabetes, aggravates and simulates diabetic retinopathy and neuropathy, destroys the optic nerve and can even cause diabetics to go into convulsions. It keeps blood sugar out of control and interacts with insulin.

So the epidemics of obesity and diabetes obviously are aspartame. Some schools want to remove pop machines which is wonderful but they think the obesity is coming from regular soda. Most of the obesity is no doubt coming from diet soda so when they say it's alright it just misinforms the public. Now American Water Stars wants to put aspartame water in the schools. It is a publicly traded company, new and is engaged in the beverage bottling industry. Their latest product is Hawaiian Tropic, an aspartame tropical drink. And they are using athletes to advertise this stuff and get it in schools. Go to www.wnho.net and click on aspartame and read how aspartame causes an irregular heart rhythm and interacts with all cardiac medication, damages the cardiac conduction system and causes sudden death. The athletes no doubt are dropping dead for this reason. It is not the ephedra which is a wonderful product used for thousands of years. The cases were reviewed by Dr. John Olney, one of the most renowned neuroscientists in the world today and who founded the field of neuroscience called excitotoxicity. Read the ephedra story too on www.wnho.net. In one of the cases of supposedly reactions from ephedra in the FDA files some parent thought their son had a reaction because he didn't go to church and left his wife. This is the kind of stupidity the FDA uses to try and get healthful products banned so industry will get the profits as drugs. The FDA in this country has become an abomination. They know aspartame interacts with most drugs and is also a chemical hypersensitization agent so it interacts with other toxins and vaccines, fluoride, etc. Yet they do nothing. They only act when its a benefit to industry and something that harms consumer's ability to secure things needed for good health.

The point is if athletes push American Water Star's aspartame products they will use them, as well kids and schools. And little children are dropping dead along with young athletes. In the Daily Herald in Illinois on 2/10/2004, it said: "The goal is to detect symptoms of hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, an inherited heart disease that can lead to sudden cardiac death. It is a condition affecting roughly one in every 500 people and 90 per cent of sudden cardiac deaths involve young athletes." First of all, aspartame can trigger cardiomyopathy and there is an article about it on the web site of the World Natural Health Organization under aspartame. And while 90% seems a bit high as adult athletes as well as other consumers are also dropping dead, it makes an important point—athletes are at risk of death big time. Whoever heard of this and especially being in the news all the time before aspartame was approved. One recent cartoon showed defibrillators being distributed from a drive-in restaurant. As the Daily Herald said: "Many high schools have installed automatic external defibrillators to assist athletes who go into sudden cardiac arrest. And so many of the young are dropping dead from SCD there is even an organization called CRY about it. There is also an organization called SADD having to do with sudden death. True some cardiac problems can be inherited but few know aspartame can cause such things as cardiomyopathy, attributing to a lot of these deaths. Also, when athletes exercise they are depleting magnesium and if they only knew to use it, it would help protect the heart. But all athletes need to be warned—DO NOT TOUCH ASPARTAME (NUTRASWEET/EQUAL, ETC.) PRODUCTS IF YOU VALUE YOUR LIFE.

The American Water Star Company even has a product for grade school age children, Geyser Sport, sugarfree. This company needs to be investigated. Because they have made remarks against the anti-aspartame movement when questioned, it means they know about it and are marketing it anyway. Any new company checking on aspartame would know immediately of its toxicity. If you search aspartame on Google it will bring up 225,000 and the first two are the Aspartame Toxicity Center, www.holisticmed.com/aspartame and www.dorway.com which houses the Mission Possible records on this toxin including government records, the damning Center for Disease Investigation, 8 month investigation by United Press International and reports and articles from the world experts. There is the FDA report of 92 symptoms and even the FDA audit, the Bressler Report. Dr. Roberts and I both spoke to Jerome Bressler who wrote it and he said it was so bad that when the FDA retyped it they removed the 20% that was the most damning. Dr. Roberts asked his congressman to get it but, of course, the FDA refused to release it because it indicts them for covering it up. Now it becomes “confidential”.

Today Mission Possible operations and activists are in 50 states and more than 22 countries of the world warning consumers off the toxin to save their life. There are aspartame detoxification centers throughout the U.S. and a couple in other countries. There is a shelf of medical texts on the subject of aspartame toxicity and dangers. American Water Star, Inc. has to know what they are doing. They MUST BE INVESTIGATED NOW BEFORE THEIR PRODUCTS CAN CAUSE GREAT AFFLICTION. How important is it? Since aspartame can cause sudden death we must stop the “sweet demise” of our children by manufacturers who want to market this poison because they know its addictive and a cash cow. They have no concern it is destroying their brains. The methanol in aspartame is classified as a narcotic. The chronic methanol poisoning affects the dopamine system of the brain and causes the addiction.

Imagine for a moment that all children in school were using aspartame water; they would all be affected and it has been proven that most all using aspartame would show the effects of consuming the toxin. From Aspartame Disease: An Ignored Epidemic by H. J. Roberts, M.D., page 504: “The following experience of Dr. Miguel Baret Daniel in the Dominican Republic (personal communication, Nov 19, 1999) underscores the adverse mental effects of aspartame in children:

“I have been working with a pediatrician giving nutritional support to children with diabetes. Since cow’s milk has a specific protein that can cause diabetes, especially in children, I removed milk from the diet of 360 children studying in public schools in my country. These 360 children were not diabetic, but I removed the milk for prevention. The pediatrician started noticing that a considerable number were having what I call a kind of “brain allergy”—showing abnormal restlessness, lack of concentration, irritability and depression. In the beginning, I suspected it was happening because of the extreme heat we were having those days. But then the weather changed, and the situation didn’t get better. So I took a look at their diet and discovered that ALL of them were drinking a lot of one kind of concentrated juice sweetened with ASPARTAME. They drank about 6 ozs. twice a day.

“I talked to their parents, and asked them to impress upon the children that they should not drink that juice anymore for awhile. The results were as astonish [sic]. Their symptoms disappeared within 4-5 days in ALL of them!”

Dr. Baret Daniel also called me at the time this happened. He told me that when the kids went from milk to aspartame sweetened juice it was an incredible thing to see because almost all were afflicted with these problems. Had a few demonstrated these handicaps it would have been hard to find the trigger but since almost all developed the complications he knew it had to be aspartame. That was the only change made in the diet of the children. He got on the Internet and started researching and seeing that aspartame was known for causing the reactions he was seeing he knew he had found what he was looking for. He asked for more research and when he called again he said: “I had the children stop taking aspartame juice and in about 4 days all their problems had ceased and they returned to normal. How could this stuff be approved and allowed for children?”

Dr. Roberts has also said you must consider aspartame when you think of children killing children. And he said in his text with reference to depression and suicide that the following points warrant emphasis:

- An estimated ten percent of teenagers suffer significant depression.
- The relation between “junk food” and depression in children seems convincing.
- The superimposition of aspartame-induced emotional reactions upon existing social and medical problems among children and teenagers could have tragic consequences.
- The rate of suicide among teenagers, especially white males, is increasing.
- This was underscored by the 1986 annual Morbidity and Mortality Weekly report.

Neurosurgeon Russell Blaylock, M.D. has a lecture on www.dorway.com and mentions the reactions to aspartame are not allergic but toxic like arsenic and cyanide. If you don’t want your children consuming arsenic you certainly need to educate them not to use aspartame.

At this point we do not know if fluoridated water is being used in these plastic bottles, but fluoride does interact with aspartame as [do] the plastic bottles. In a discussion with Dr. James Bowen about this “Destruction Water” he said:

“The technologically advanced U.S. military is having problems finding soldiers who can even correctly operate the weaponry. The reason for this is a 15% FALL IN THE AVERAGE high school graduate’s IQ: due to the ineffective, medically unsound immunization program, fluoridation of the water supply and Aspartame. We have a whole new tier of diseases engendered by these neurological damaging agents. Prominent amongst these are the MtDna diseases like Diabetes, Autism and other “Pervasive Developmental Disorders”. Many high school graduates now cannot correctly perform even basic math calculations!

Not only does Aspartame damage the immune system, but genetics also, especially the Mt DNA. This has resulted in an immense epidemic of CHz, “Chemical Hypersensitivity disease”. This makes it difficult or impossible to learn in much of the indoor air, as in our schools, for example. The plastics which leach into bottled waters contribute to this Aspartame engendered problem. Banning pop machines is a step in the right direction, but replacing pop with plastic bottles of Aspartame water will mean only greater intake of Aspartame, and more plastic tainted water. The Schools need to educate, and provide a proper learning environment by protecting the students from all such agents, and having them drink pure water from fluoride free drinking fountains.

Let’s turn things around. For a moment imagine all aspartame products removed from the schools and the children only consuming nutritious food. Like Dr. Baret Daniel’s case where all children were consuming aspartame, this is an example where all kids were not consuming aspartame. It is often called Miracle in Wisconsin. The ADD people took the worst school in Wisconsin with the most learning problems and behavioral problems and removed pop machines and vending machines with all the junk and additives. Then they put “real food” in the schools. At the end of the program the worst school in Wisconsin became the best school with zero learning problems or behavioral problems. I believe the story is on the Safe Harbor web site.

Aspartame is also a teratogen and causes birth defects and mental retardation. Aspartame has a synergistic and additive effect with MSG. Neurosurgeon Russell Blaylock, M.D., wrote Excitotoxins: The Taste That Kills about aspartame and MSG., www.russellblaylockmd.com. His new book Health & Nutrition Secrets to Save Your Life reveals all the interactions, exposes lies from industry, and tells you how to get well and improve the immune system. It’s a book hard to put down. His paper on what to do if you have used aspartame is on www.wnho.net. You will find it under the registry of articles.

The FDA once tried to get the manufacturer of aspartame indicted under Title 18, Section 1001, as they were lying and giving misinformation, etc. Today the FDA is guilty themselves of Title 18, Section 1001. The FDA did try to keep it off the market. Searle was not indicted because both U.S. Prosecutors hired on with the defense team and the statute of limitations expired. They refused to approve it for 16 years but CEO of Searle was Don Rumsfeld, now Secretary of Defense. He said he would call in his markers and get it approved anyway. He was on President Reagan’s transition team and the day after he took office he appointed Dr. Arthur Hull Hayes as FDA Commissioner. No FDA Commissioner would ever approve aspartame but Dr. Hayes was there to do just that. So the FDA set up a Board of Inquiry of their best scientists and it was the decision of the Board that aspartame was not safe and caused brain tumors. They said to revoke the petition for approval as you will see in the summation on www.dorway.com. Dr. Hayes over-ruled the Board of Inquiry and then went to work for the PR Agency of the manufacturer and has refused to talk to the press ever since. He had accomplished what he was sent to the FDA to do. Rumor has it Dr. Hayes was paid by Burson-Marsteller $1000.00 a day, but I’m sure it can be checked out. What does an FDA Commissioner do in a PR firm? Perhaps send postcards home from Bermuda. Yes, Dr. Hayes was paid for his crime in allowing the marketing of a deadly chemical poison for human consumption.

Some years ago Fox news, Washington DC, went to Dr. Hayes home for a comment. He shut the door in face and told them to go back to the FDA. You can hear the audio of it on www.dorway.com. No doubt millions have perished from aspartame as it is a trigger of what Dr. Blaylock calls—creeping death, the neurodegenerative diseases. In original studies it caused brain, mammary, uterine, ovarian, testicular, pancreatic and thyroid tumors—for starters. It is a Class A carcinogen and violated the Delaney Amendment as FDA toxicologist, Dr. Adrian Gross told congress in 1985. The Delaney Amendment forbid putting anything in food you know will cause cancer. Now the Delaney Amendment has been conveniently repealed. Just who decided it was okay to put components in food that would cause cancer?? Dr. Gross’ last words to Congress will always be remembered: “And if the FDA violates its own laws who is left to protect the public?” Dr. Gross was the FDA toxicologist who wanted Searle indicted, as did FDA toxicologist Dr. Jacqueline Verrett who told Congress all studies were built on a foundation of sand and should be thrown out.

There is no protector for the people, the reason for Mission Possible International, an unpaid global volunteer force alerting the public aspartame is a deadly chemical poison, a neurotoxic drug.

Millions of babies are murdered in their mother’s womb by aspartame and the FDA and industry refuse to allow a warning for pregnant women. Dr. James Bowen says in Aspartame Murders Infants, “Aspartame is sold as NutraSweet and Equal and is in thousands of foods and diet drinks. At every point in the fertility process aspartame destroys, beginning with the gleam in Mom and Pop’s eyes. It ruins female sexual response and induces male sexual dysfunction. Beyond this, aspartame disrupts fetal development by aborting it or inducing defects. And if a live child is born aspartame may have heinously damaged the DNA of the baby, cursing future generations.” And American Water Star would like school children drinking aspartame water. Dr. Roberts says in his text under cognitive problems that the deterioration of intelligence and learning skills in aspartame reactors is evidenced by slippage in school performance. “It may take a generation or longer to ascertain the full extent of this problem.”

The symptoms and diseases triggered by aspartame fill a 1038 page medical text. Dr. Roberts talks about the high concentrations of phenylalanine in infancy can interfere with the synthesis of myelin. They inhibit specific ATP-sulfurylase activity within the central nervous system (Hommes 1987). He says this issue is relevant to the simulation or aggravation of multiple sclerosis by aspartame. Of course, aspartame destroys the central nervous system and causes methanol toxicity. However, Dr. Roberts says its the whole chemical mess. The FDA actually allows a product to be marketed with free methyl alcohol. It’s called insanity.

Cori Brackett is a woman who used lots of aspartame and was diagnosed by the Mayo Clinic as having MS, and with the largest lesion ever diagnosed in an MS patient at the clinic. Cori decided to do her own research and read the reports on www.dorway.com. She got off aspartame and walked out of her wheelchair. The lesion in her brain has now disappeared. She also made an aspartame documentary called Sweet Misery: A Poisoned World. It can be pre-ordered now and those interested can contact me and I’ll forward your information.

To tell you how serious these problems with aspartame are, Cori filmed Diane Fleming in a prison in Troy, Virginia. Diane Fleming is a sweet Sunday School teacher who helped the homeless. Her husband Charles was a body builder and played basketball about four times a week. He also was an aspartame addict using at least 10 diet drinks a day along with Metrex with aspartame, Equal and lots of prescription drugs, Gatorade and creatine. She tried to get him to cut down on things she thought dangerous but he told her “more is better”. He paid with his life. When he died the police seeing the methanol poisoning on autopsy thought she poisoned him, even though she tried to help the police and she passed her polygraph with flying colors. In talking to one policeman yesterday, however, who was on the case he said: “I know Diane Fleming is an innocent woman. I’ve put a lot of people in prison and some were executed but I always knew I had gotten a killer off the sheet. I would not have allowed this innocent woman to be indicted but I was promoted and couldn’t prevent it. How could I have ever slept if I had caused a guiltless woman to be imprisoned.”

Diane is an aspartame victim herself because she was lied to by the FDA and industry and the professional organizations they fund and thought it was safe. She went through depression when she lost her husband and was put on Zoloft. Zoloft interacts with aspartame. So even at her trial she could show no emotion, she was drugged by the very same poison that killed her husband. I hope you are enraged when you read this. Diane thought she was so blessed by having a wonderful husband and happy life that she wanted to give something back. She taught the word of God, and she bought clothes for the homeless and helped them once a week in a hands on matter. Does the FDA know about this? Of course, they do and could care less. This doesn’t [affect] the industry they are so loyal to. To them its just another victim and they have turned their back on the victims of aspartame disease. It was even mentioned in congressional hearings the FDA was getting so many complaints on aspartame they referred them to the AIDS Hotline to get rid of them.

I filed a Citizens Petition to ban aspartame based on the fact the FDA’s records show it to be a chemical poison and they lie to the public. The FDA has 180 days by law to answer. It will be two years in June and their last letter said they have competing priorities. Translation: “Since we’re guilty and you’re right, we just won’t answer and continue to serve above the law.”

Then we have to deal with front groups who mislead the public which is a crime under Title 18, Section 1001. The Calorie Control Council, as an example is registered to the Aspartame page. Their lies are legend but recently they crossed the line of human dignity by writing the Miami Herald and saying aspartame is safe for pregnant women knowing full well it can kill the baby. They know the Trocho Study shows how much toxicity aspartame causes in the liver, so it can cause advanced liver disease. Yet they also said people with advanced liver disease can use aspartame. Even the FDA has a prohibition against those with phenylketonuria using aspartame because they can’t metabolize the phenylalanine in aspartame. It can cause brain damage or even be fatal. Yet, Calorie Control Council also said people with PKU can use this toxin.

The interesting thing about aspartame is its toxicity is a matter of public record. If we don’t know what a deadly poison can cause after over 20 years we’re in bad shape. The CCC even said aspartame doesn’t get in the blood stream when an aspartame manufacturer has shown that it can in their own study. As an example, in Aspartame, Physiology and Biochemistry, Marcel Dekker, Inc., New York, L.D. Stegink and L. J. Filer, Jr., 1984 (Pro-industry, Significantly corporate Sponsored), on page 161 it shows this study by Ajinomoto, an aspartame manufacturer:

“TISSUE DISTRIBUTION OF ORALLY ADMINISTERED ISOTOPICALLY LABELED ASPARTAME IN THE RAT”, Yoshimasa Matsuzawa and Yuichi O’Hara, Life Science Laboratory, Central Research Laboratories, Ajinomoto Company, Inc. Yokohama, Japan.

Page 162: RESULTS: Phenylalanine Moiety: “The pattern of distribution of (U-14CPhe) aspartame following its oral administration was very similar to that of (U-14C) phenylalanine after 0.5, 2.6 and 24 hr and 7 days. Thirty minutes after administration of these compounds, very high levels of radioactivity were observed in the lumen of the stomach and upper small bowel. Significant uptake of radioactivity was observed in the pancreas, gastrointestinal mucosa, hair follicles, salivary gland and liver. Radioactivity was observed in the kidney, adrenal gland, bone marrow, spleen and eye. Some radiolabel was observed in the pancreas, gastrointestinal mucosa, hair follicles, salivary gland and liver. Radioactivity was observed in the kidney, adrenal gland, bone marrow, spleen and eye. Some radiolabel was localized to the brain, spinal cord, heart, thymus, lung and testes.”

In one of the original manufacturer’s pivotal studies, a “52-Week Oral toxicity Infant Monkey Study” (SC-18862) where 7 infant monkeys were fed aspartame, 5 had grand mal seizures and 1 died. The data revealed by this pivotal study submitted to FDA renders false the CC’s assertion that aspartame does not enter the blood stream. Elevated levels of phenylalanine in the blood of monkeys fed medium and high levels of aspartame prove that the compound is absorbed in the blood stream. The brain seizures followed.

We must stop the disability and death to our children by this deadly poison. It’s all a matter of public record and ANYONE who wants to see these records a lot of them are available on www.dorway.com and www.wnho.net and www.holisticmed.com/aspartame as well as other links. You can go to www.greatfallspro.com and get a CD of the ENTIRE Board of Inquiry saying aspartame is not safe and the petition for approval is revoked. It also contains Dr. John Olney’s testimony to the Board of Inquiry telling them what would happen to the brains of our children if aspartame is approved. Unfortunately, that prophecy has been fulfilled. Also on the CD is the entire 1985 congressional record with scientists and victims testifying on how deadly it is. If you read someone trying to get away with saying its safe it will be like a professional organization, like the ADA’s who are funded by the manufacturer. Monsanto’s media flacks are the dietitians. So many times when the news get out the dietitians will come to the defense of the manufacturer. Monsanto has sold NutraSweet but as Mohammed Ali once said, “They can run but they can’t hide”.

On www.aspartame.ca which is Mission Possible Canada you can read a new report on why these isolated amino acids in aspartame are so deadly. It has been written by Dr. James Bowen and Arthur Evangelista, a former FDA Investigator who acknowledges that aspartame is a deadly chemical poison.

Dr. Ralph Walton has written a report that is on www.dorway.com on scientific peer reviewed research and funding showing that 92% of all independent studies not controlled or funded by the manufacturers of aspartame show the problems it causes. And he says if you eliminate 6 studies by the FDA because of the controversy (linked to industry) and one pro-aspartame summary, 100% of independent scientific peer reviewed studies show the problems aspartame causes. What more is necessary to prove how deadly this toxin is as the epidemics it causes skyrocket. And there is information on the flawed studies of industry and how they get away with it.

Our kids are getting a high on Listerine strips and having seizures. Pfizer doesn’t care and no longer answers my mail. I guess they are making too much money. Walmart as well sells aspartame water as we continually get the complaints from the victims. They simply send back the propaganda even though they are told and told and told it is not valid and given references and medical texts, etc. that reveal the truth. Wrigley who we have written for years about the danger of aspartame in gum instead of removing it has put it in almost all their gums. When aspartame is buccal, and being a neurotoxic drug, works like nitroglycerin under the tongue, goes through saliva straight to the brain. And it causes so many seizures. Obviously Wrigley doesn’t care.

Our kids are being medicated in school instead of educated, and if you read Dr. Olney’s report to the Board of Inquiry of the FDA you will see what he said would happen to the brains of our kids has happened.

The Idaho Observer wrote the Diane Fleming story and you will also see it on www.wnho.net, click on aspartame. They have also published the Artificially Sweetened Times which contains the story of Diane Fleming and more in order to help the effort. When 192 people dropped dead for no apparent reason the Idaho Observer wrote the Center for Disease Control a certified letter to investigate. They didn’t even care enough to answer. Stay tuned for the new Artificially Sweetened Times which is continually being published to alert the public and get this poison off the market (www.Idaho-Observer.com).

We ask that you pass this article on to the ends of the Earth to help alert the public and stop this genocide. Help save the children! There are four aspartame support groups on-line to help the victims.

Remember the words of Senator Abraham S. Ribicoff in 1971: “The chemicals we ingest may affect more than our own health. They affect the health and vitality of future generations. The danger is that many of these chemicals may not harm us, but will later do silent violence to our children.” In the case of aspartame it can affect anyone who consumes it because it’s poison.

GEORGE MERCIER’S INVISIBLE CONTRACTS

PARTS NINE & TEN OF A TWELVE-PART SYNOPSIS (Pages 478-531)

By Ron Kirzinger

WARNING: WHAT YOU ARE ABOUT TO READ IS HAZARDOUS MATERIAL. PLEASE DO NOT ACT ON THIS INFORMATION WITHOUT ACCEPTING FULL RESPONSIBILITY FOR YOUR OWN ACTIONS.

PART NINE: INSURANCE, LICENSING

As we have seen throughout Mercier’s presentation, it is the acceptance of benefits that marks the existence of a contract and most of the important contracts that govern our lives today are invisible. Here in Part Nine of his immense letter to Mr. May, Mercier outlines two additional, generally unsuspected ways that we become subject to the King.

[QUOTING:]

INSURANCE PROGRAMS

[How else do we become subject to the King?] Through entry into the juristic highways of Interstate Commerce by participation in an insurance policy program, as insurance is Interstate Commerce, and the King retains a third party beneficiary status in all Commercial transactions that fall under his regulatory Commercial Jurisdiction penumbra. In 1944, the Supreme Court decided a Case called United States vs. South-Eastern Underwriters Association, which held that insurance, all by itself, is Interstate Commerce; so if you manage to participate in policies of insurance, you are participating in Interstate Commerce; Federal commercial benefits are being accepted, and the reciprocal quid pro quo taxation is necessary. The fact that the insurance company may be state chartered and licensed to do business in only one state, and that the policy may have been negotiated, accepted, written and entered into in only one state are not relevant indicia as effecting limitations on federal Jurisdictions; persons paying premiums on policies of Insurance are persons playing in King’s Commerce. A year later after United States vs. South-Eastern Underwriters Association was ruled upon, the Congress enacted the McCarren Act, declaring that the:

“... continued regulation and taxation by the several states of the business of insurance is in the public interest, and that silence on the part of Congress shall not be construed to impose any barrier to the regulation or taxation of such business by the several states.”

Yes, even the Congress of the United States knows that the application of Principles of Nature relating to silence that are incorporated into the Ratification Doctrine is even held to be binding on them in some circumstances. This Congressional pronouncement, that silence in the context of a proposition being made constitutes acceptance, applies to all appropriate factual settings, and is held to apply to all persons, even the Congress itself. But as for taxation expectations, your acceptance of the benefits of an insurance program is deemed as evidence of entry into Interstate Commerce, and hence such participants are an object suitable for Federal taxation, regardless of any political Status, and regardless of the presence or absence of any other juristic contract.

FEDERAL LICENSING PROGRAMS

[How else do we become subject to the King?] By experiencing the direct benefits of Commercial enrichment acquired through a Federal license program, such as being an SEC registered stockbroker, or an ATF licensed manufacturer of fireworks, which is an obvious pursuit of federally participated profit or gain. Several federal monopolies were designed specifically for the existing participants to experience intensive Commercial enrichment in, as the net effect of a regulatory jurisdiction is to discourage potential new market entrants from competing with established corporate titans. In any market there are only so many potential customers available, and excluding new upstarts allows existing Grandfathers to have a bigger slice of the pie they would not otherwise be experiencing. For example, the creation of National Banks by the Congress, through the Comptroller of the Currency, is one such monopoly designed to enrich existing market participants, while shutting out new banks and damaging the end consumer. In any one demographic banking district, there is only so much business to be had; cutting out new entrants keeps a bigger slice of the banking pie for the owners.

The secondary consequences of restraining the number of new market entrants politically are elevated prices the end consumer winds up paying, constricted services and retarded technological innovations.

[END QUOTING]

PART TEN: STATE-CREATED JURISTIC BENEFITS

The caption for this section is much broader than its actual content, which focuses primarily on the issue of acceptance of the benefit of using the King’s highways. There are very many other “state-created juristic benefits”, of course, not least of which is “the right to sue and to be sued”. Only a fiction-of-law “person” may avail itself of legal redress in Admiralty Jurisdiction; men and women need not apply because it is “a correct principle of Nature” that like may only deal with like. Corporations, such as the government, are fictitious imaginings. A corporation cannot think and cannot act. It is an absurdity when we hear, “Today the government announced (this or that).” A corporation cannot speak!

All the same, we are caught up in this world of illusion and the fact is that the illusion is enforced by guns and jail cells. Leroy Schweitzer (of Montana Freeman infamy) may well have been 100% correct, technically, but the last this writer heard of him he was sentenced to 22.5 years in jail in March 1999.

Accordingly, it is wise to work within what IS while making efforts to change things into BETTER.

[QUOTING:]

In 1910, the Supreme Court ruled that if a Prince creates some type of a profit or gain situation in Commerce (and remember that King’s Commerce is a closed private domain belonging to Government), then the King can participate in taxing that profit or gain that the Prince created. When state created benefits are accepted by you, then the Commercial enrichment you experience within that state franchise is very much within the taxing power of the United States Government; and that is correct Law.

Additionally, the King can tax other state created Commercial benefits that are experienced by others like attorneys and accountants who, as Special Interest Groups, use the police powers of the state for their own private enrichment, by setting up shared monopolies and then experiencing higher revenues than otherwise obtainable under a laissez-faire free market entry without restrictions on new lower priced competitors entering into their trade.

This game of using penal statutes to create shared enrichment monopolies is quite old, and yet look around you today and see how many bleeding heart folks there are, who really want to believe that line that Government is their friend, just somehow; and also fall for the fraudulent line that such a monopoly is for their own protective good—by keeping all those evil quacks, vile frauds, and assorted degenerate incompetents out of the legal and medical professions.

Although we might not be too philosophically sympathetic with the manipulative use of Legislatures to create monopolies and the Tortfeasance that is thrown at us in the adverse secondary circumstances flowing from their operations, as a matter of law, creating game rules for voluntary players in King’s Commerce is largely immune from Constitutional restraints.

...[H]ere in the contemporary United States, once a state has got you tied into a licensing program of some type, then and there you are experiencing some type of state-created juristic benefit, and as such, you then become a federal taxable object for this benefit accepting reason alone. When presented with such a state license, no other questions about the existence of the National Citizenship Contract, or any other juristic contract, ever need be asked by those termites in the IRS searching the Countryside for some meat to lay into.

[END QUOTING]

THE KING’S HIGHWAYS

For purposes of this synopsis we’ll go with Mr. Mercier’s introduction to the driver’s license issue in the several paragraphs that follow, then break down the remainder of this section into a series of separate quotations.

[QUOTING:]

Other state monopolies like Driver’s Licenses and motor vehicle registrations are very much used by the IRS in many ways to assist them in tax collections; and state tax collectors also use these records for their own statute enforcement and state treasury enrichment conquests as well. When those Driver’s License records are collected by the state, they are also forwarded to Washington, and then redistributed to foreign persons and foreign political jurisdictions under numerous executive agreements, diplomatic and military treaties and bureaucratic cordialities.

Yet, even though you entered into those state licenses merely to avoid your incarceration as an unlicensed driver, the uncontested preparation of a state created juristic personality, such [as] through a Driver’s License, to the Supreme Court would be prospectively sufficient for that Court to attach in personam liability to Title 26 as a Person accepting special state created benefits. It is also reasonable to infer that a Driver’s License is evidence of Residency, and of the acceptance of a wide-ranging array of state benefits tailored to Residents. Remember that your use of those highways is your acceptance of a benefit that Government created, and since reciprocity is expected back in return, contracts are in effect: Invisible and automatic.

If you do so file objections to the assertion of a Beneficent Taxable Juristic Commercial Status over you by way of a Driver’s License, you will need to again prove your present state of mind; and the exact state code criminalizing such innocuous behavior has to be quoted within the body of your Objection. Some folks prefer to play it safe and avoid the Driver’s License altogether; while others selectively use deception in assuming a nom de plume for purposes of deflecting recourse identification.

However, other folks are not able to so quickly terminate the Driver’s License due to the fundamental importance of the thing and either their present inability to successfully handle a criminal prosecution or their reluctance to assign something deleterious to it; and so at a minimum, an Objection and a Declaratory Judgment to Quiet Status originated in Federal District Court is in order. The Declaratory Judgment, ruling that the Driver’s License was a Compelled License, existing as a coerced instrument signed by you to avoid incarceration as an unlicensed driver, and is not to be used by the IRS or anyone else for the expansive purposes of evidence of either Residency or of Domiciliary, nor as evidence of entrance into Commerce, or of the taxable acceptance of federal or state created benefits, or of consent to be bound by any statute, other than those state motor vehicle statutes. The objective of our pursuit of a Declaratory Judgment is: ...since the license was compelled out of us when some de minimis tension is in effect with a Substantive Right (the Right to Travel), and since the avowed purpose of the license itself is to adduce Evidence of Competency, then the extraneous collateral expectations of reciprocity in any area outside of those Motor Vehicle Statutes it would otherwise create when left unchallenged, is now terminated.

If you are going to Object to, and have new narrow contours now defined on your Driver’s License in order to restrain its use by other Government agencies as the high-powered King’s Equity attachment instrument that it is, then the Objection should generally follow the model pattern set forth above in the discussion of Federal Reserve Notes. This Objection should refer to the exact state penal statute [and] that you are applying for the license under Objection and protest, merely to avoid incarceration as an unlicensed driver.

[END QUOTING]
Up front we should update Mercier’s position regarding the King’s Highway to include our “highways in the sky”. Air travel is, in case someone failed to notice, being strongly federally regulated. Thus, the very act of boarding an airplane is a “benefit”—which, of course, implies the existence of an invisible contract. “Resistance is futile,” comes to mind. Mr. Mercier’s well-studied approach to such adhesion contracts almost certainly ensures confrontation with the “powers that be” at some point, particularly if the individual is at all concerned with having any property or money whatsoever. Accordingly, we will run through rather than visit with the more technical points he presents.

Mercier notes that the Objection should present the exact state statute verbatim and continues, “Also included should be a brief recap of the Right to Travel Cases in the United States Supreme Court.”

He points out, however, that “a Right to Travel also lies outside of, and beyond the reach of, the King’s Charter (the Constitution).”

The Objection should contain a “Declaration therein that you are not a Resident or a Citizen of that State together with correlative supporting averments of Benefit Rejections, regardless of any statute that facially appears to force Residency Status on persons physically inhabited in that state for an extended period of time.”

“The documentation and proof that the Supreme Court would want to see is a copy of the application for the Driver’s License where it says you signed it under protest; proof of service of your Objection on state officials, the Objection itself, and a 30-day invitation to those state officials to let them cancel or rescind the Driver’s License if the application of Commercial Status and/or Residency Status is deemed mandatory on all License holders (thus requiring those state officials to come out of the closet and expose some Status oriented law to you they might not want you to know). Under your Declaratory Judgment, the Driver’s License will be construed to act exclusively as Evidence of Competency under Motor Vehicle statutes only.”

Otherwise, “Uncontested Driver’s Licenses can very much be used by state taxing commissions as evidence of Residency, and hence evidence of an in personam attachment of liability for the expected reciprocal payment of benefits accepted on the state Income Tax, among many other juristic things. As viewed by sophisticated appellate judges, for state vehicle code enforcement purposes, Driver’s Licenses are evidences of an operator’s competency, and are not, in this context, the Evidences of Consent to be Regulated in Commerce that Highway Contract Protesters occasionally talk about.”

Simply not having a driver’s license is no cure because “You don’t need any written contract on someone in order to sue someone and bring him into a Court and perfect a judgment against the poor fellow—but you do need to show the acceptance of benefits and of the expectation of reciprocity, which elements are very much present when a motor vehicle is operated on state provided highways, with ‘Public Notice’ statutes creating the expectation of reciprocity.”

Rather, he suggests that the individual pursue a Judicial Declaration of Status, which “becomes appropriate by necessity in this unusual factual setting of redefining the contours of an Adhesion Contract Driver’s License to a limited and narrowed construction (meaning: Evidence of Highway Competency, only).”

Mercier explains that the Common Law Right to Travel arose in a day when “highways” were mere dirt paths. In that environment the King was not providing any particular benefit. “But today, Government is spending incredible amounts of money, year in and year out, to build and maintain highways, so Right to Travel argument parallels that folks draw that try to disable the contemporary ability of the King to even ask for reciprocity back in return for benefits offered are incorrect.”

“And today, high-powered technology routinely causes wholesale death and destruction when an operator does no more than momentarily lose absolute mental concentration on driving—and in such a factual setting, an honest assessment by Highway Contract Protesters of the underlying legitimacy of the requirement that there be Evidence of Competency, would necessarily result in the conclusion that a Driver’s License, so called, really isn’t all that unreasonable, and is in fact, very reasonable.”

Thus he arrives at the conclusion: “Whenever anyone, regardless of your relational Status off the highways, uses those Government highways, an invisible contract is in effect right then and there; it is not necessary for your regional Prince, the State, to adduce written evidence of your consent—just like it is not necessary to get a contract in writing to get the contract enforced judicially.”

The changes-in-technologies issue certainly impacts far more than our freedom to travel. A recent news article relates that the Bush Administration wants EVERY American to be subjected to psychological “screening”, which would, of course, be “in the public interest”. Mercier foresaw some of these issues, which were touched on in the following footnote:

“Although I cannot predict the technological developments of the next century, I foresee intractable issues looming in behavior and thought control. The emerging wizardries of chemotherapy, psychosurgery, behavior modification and genetic engineering, with their ‘clockwork orange’ overtones, might seem an unlikely source of moral dilemmas.... But like all technological advances, these developments carry promise as well as peril.”—Judge David Bazalon in Civil Liberties—Protecting Old Values in the New Century, 51 New York University Law Review 505, at 511 (1976).

Returning to the discussion of invisible contracts derived from acceptance of benefits in our travels, Mercier notes:

“...Even walking into a shopping center could be a contract—if the management so much as posts a notice giving some conditional or qualified use to persons entering therein and accepting the benefits the management is offering (such as requiring shoes and shirts, and so are the arguments of unfairness—that those reciprocal terms of wearing shirts and shoes just don’t apply to you because you traveled from just so far away—as some shopping center security guard throws you out of the place—is just whimpering).”

Mercier faults the Founding Fathers for failing to restrain the King from shrewdly providing benefits actually aimed at binding us by invisible contracts. But he also faults the courts:

“Yet despite this predominate skew towards contract priority in judicial Right to Travel doctrinal reasoning, annulment by the Supreme Court of criminal liability for the innocent use of public highways under circumstances where no collaborating damages were caused, would be appropriate; an honest assessment of the total factual picture by a sophisticated judge would result in the conclusion that merely driving a car down a street without a license does not ascend to the minimum threshold requirements that characterize legitimate criminal incarceration standards—compelled contract or no compelled contract; those penal highway statutes exist by virtue of Special Interest Group sponsorship and pressure, and judges are diminishing their own stature and violate the restraining mandates inherent in the Republican Form of Government Clause, by letting clever and politically ambitious Special Interest Groups get away with whatever they can buy in Legislatures to damage innocent behavior under circumstances where unnecessary covenants within adhesive contracts are being asserted in tension with Substantive Natural Rights in the Locomotion area....”

A more reasonable solution is proffered: “In a factual setting where an unlicensed driver creates damages out on the highway, then punitive incarceration is appropriate, and this requirement reconciles everyone’s objections by accomplishing the same identical criminal recourse the incarcerationists yearn for so much in their vindictive cries for encagement glory.”

Secondarily, Mercier argues that the courts should consider the adhesive nature of the contract: “Where the terms of contracts are not freely negotiated due to the dominate overbearing positional strength of one of the parties, the judicial allowance of a de minimis amount of corrective ‘fairness’ is appropriate since there never was any mutual assent—and that already exists in American Jurisprudence and is now called the Adhesion Contract Doctrine.”

Further, there is the fact that the King descends in status whenever he enters into commerce with us because “Everyone is (supposedly) equal under the law.”

“...The Supreme Court has ruled that shopping center owners, who open up their premises for public ingress and egress, lose some of their property rights, i.e., there is a declension in status from having absolute authority to eject with discretion anyone they want, down to being restrained from doing so.

“If this legal reasoning, which diminishes the rights of property owners, were to be applied to a highway setting by way of comparative analogy, then the fact that Government Highways are open to the public should, theoretically, partially restrain the State from exercising absolute jurisdiction to eject a person from merely using the highways without a license, down to a reduced property rights status where the mere non-existence of a compelled Driver’s License is insufficient grounds for incarceration, absent, perhaps, collaborating causal damages.”

BILLS OF ATTAINDER

A commonly used argument by highway Right to Travel Protesters is based on the lack of validity of Bills of Attainder. “Bills of Attainder are legislative acts that inflict punishment without a judicial trial, and violate the Separation of Powers Doctrine.”

“...The Supreme Court has defined a Bill of Attainder as a Legislative Act which inflicts punishment on named individuals or members of an easily ascertainable group without the benefit of a judicial trial. In determining whether a particular statute is a Bill of Attainder, the judicial analysis necessarily requires an inquiry into three definitional elements, each of the three standards must be violated:

- “1. Specificity in Identification; and
- “2. Punishment; and
- “3. Lack of Judicial Trial.”

As Mercier explains, traffic tickets SEEM to be Bills of Attainder (which are proscribed by the Constitution):

“As it applies to Highway Contract Protesters, when the arresting officer issues you out a citation, and perhaps fixes a fine right then and there without any judicial trial, or if the Administrative Law Judge affixes the fine, then, seemingly all of the indicia that characterize Bills of Attainder have been met: An identifiable group has been targeted; summary punishment was determined by some Executive Department agent; and there was no judicial trial. For Highway Contract Protesters in search of some arguments, just anything, to throw at Judges, that is all they need to hear.

“I know that you Protesters do not want to hear this kind of talk, but your reasoning is defective and Traffic Tickets do not operate as Bills of Attainder for reasons that require an expanded basis of factual knowledge to exercise judgment on. Traffic Tickets do possess the Bill of Attainder indicia attributes of targeting a specific and identifiable group of people to nail; and there is pre-defined Legislative punishment provided for; but it is the last remaining element of a Judicial Trial that you Protesters err in. Even though your fines were assessed or collected under summary Administrative findings of guilt (at either the roadside or in front of an Administrative Law Judge), with the fines being pre-determined by Legislative mandates, in all States where I have examined Motor Vehicle Statutes, there is a provision for a Judicial Trial de novo, meaning that whatever fine was paid or assessed by the Executive Department agent can be challenged on appeal in Court with the benefit of a Judicial Trial, who will then consider your Case starting from a clean slate, or de novo (meaning anew of fresh). Since a Judicial Trial is offered, Traffic Tickets do not meet Bills of Attainder standards under Supreme Court guidelines—at least, that is the way the Legislatures believe that they have protected themselves from challenge.”

He concludes: “...[Y]ou will never, ever get, from any appellate court anywhere in the United States, the on-point published adjudication of your unlicensed motor vehicle operation question in your favor (and I am aware that many Highway Contract Protesters have convinced themselves that they are on the imminent threshold of the ultimate judicial conquest: a published Opinion in their favor). You Highway Contract Protesters are just not in such a strong position that you have convinced yourselves that you are in; your copious Common Law Right to Travel briefs are applicable to a highway factual setting of a tranquil quiescent nature that is nowhere to be found in the United States today.

“Remember that in Nature, contracts, when they are in effect, come first. Sorry, Protesters, but you are into an invisible contract whenever you accept a benefit someone else conditionally offered and we damage largely ourselves by refusing to Open our Eyes once corrective presentations of error are made to us. And when contracts are in effect, then only the content of the contract is of any relevancy to a Judge—to allow a Judge to go beyond the stipulations of the parties, or to otherwise supersede or vary the contract by Tort Law reasoning, is to have the Judge throw a Tort at the losing party.”

So once again we see that arguments of “right and wrong” based in Tort Law are meaningless in the factual context of adjudicating CONTRACTS. Mercier’s concluding parapgraph for this chapter says BUNCHES:

“Yes, you Highway Contract Protesters out there have some deep soul searching to do. For purposes of experiencing an appellate court victory, you Protesters are actually wasting your time; for purposes of acquiring knowledge of the priority in Nature of invisible contracts governing the settlement of grievances, you... will one day look back and be ever so grateful that you drove yourself to the deep technical depths that you did in search of answers and legal arguments, any arguments, to win your Cases, as unknown to you at that time, that factual knowledge later turned out to be prerequisite to see the invisible Contracts Heavenly Father has on us all from the First Estate, and to understand the Contract Law Jurisprudential setting that will be the Last Day, a Judgment Setting where attractive Tort Law reasoning and correlative defense arguments sounding in the sugar coated deceptively sweet melodies of Tort will not be beneficial.”

As usual throughout his letter, Mr. Mercier placed some very interesting footnotes in this “chapter” of his letter to Mr. May. While a lot of this material is beyond the scope of this synopsis, let’s focus on three particularly interesting footnotes.

RISK ASSESSMENT

Mercier states that we are constantly engaged in determinations of risk assessment.

[QUOTING:]

“Gremlins, being the administratively well organized body of vermin workhorses that they are, also thoroughly immerse themselves in precise, well thought out risk assessment model scenarios. This process is normally used in such areas like probing for the probable subject reaction to one more turn of the screws, or in estimating the likelihood of actually achieving, and then getting away with, some desired damages somewhere—some murder, some revolution, or some war, conquest, asset grab, or famine being manufactured someplace. From the Gremlin perspective, then, risk assessment has to be viewed as another tool in the decision making process to deflect the occurrence of adverse circumstances as what was once a great Gremlin enscrewment plan starts to fall apart for some unexpected reason.

Gremlins have had a few words to say about structural risk analysis and assessment (I selected this discourse due to its Highway setting and the political overtones it brings to light):

“...[P]uzzling is the apparently irrational attitude which people have towards environmental hazards... Some 7,000 people are killed and some 350,000 injured each year on the roads of Britain. Yet this perpetual carnage—nearly 1,000 killed or injured every day—generates no public outrage. ...[Y]ou will find that politicians will be rather chary of imposing a maximum speed limit of 50 miles per hour on all roads where the limit is not already 30 or 40, though if they did, both energy and lives would be saved. Why then don’t they do it? It would not really be difficult to enforce.

“...I shall put the answer politely: Their [GM: risk assessment] judgment... tells them that people would not like it. And then all the other goodies they have in mind for you, less unemployment, less inflation, less taxation, and increasing standard of living, fair shares for all... you name it—might be unrealizable; because, you might say, ‘Maybe we need a change of Government. I want to go faster than 50 miles per hour on all those marvelous motorways I paid for.’

“...The results of risk accounting are surprising...”—Baron Nathaniel Rothschild in the Wall Street Journal (“Coming to Grips with Risk”), page 22 (March 13, 1979).

[Similarly, it is generally known that incorrect medical prescriptions cost more lives each year than all of the automobile accidents AND deaths by firearms COMBINED.]

...For the value placed on the inconvenience involved, is the risk of standing before Father at the Last Day, without having been tried under his New and Everlasting Covenants, worth the probable forfeiture of Celestial benefits? The answer to that Question lies within yourself.

[END QUOTING]

ONE MORNING IN DEALEY PLAZA

This footnote is very lengthy, so let’s just cut right to the point.

[QUOTING:]

A Question surfaced in his mind, followed by another: Who am I? What am I doing here?, with the first Question fading away quickly with the second soon following suit; he had done enough soul searching for one day, and this whole thing was eating at him too much. After suppressing expressions of sympathy that he and Nelson would be extending to Jackie on the morrow in a private White House reception—those recurring condolences that he had been rehearsing—Richard Nixon finally cleared his mind of these extraneous thoughts as he slowly turned around and left Dealey Plaza, heading indirectly for Love Airfield. After placing a phone call to Nelson Rockefeller in New York City, telling him that everything “...is set” and that he is flying back to New York, Richard Nixon would clear out of Dallas two hours before President Kennedy arrived in Dallas after having breakfast in Fort Worth. For factual information on Nixon in Dallas, see generally the Dallas Morning News:

- (“Guard Not for Nixon”), Section 4, page 1 (Friday, November 22, 1963);
- (“Nixon Predicts JFK May Drop Johnson”—Press Interview), Section 4, page 1 (has accompanying photograph);
- (“Thunderstorms”—weather), Section 4, page 3 (Friday, November 22, 1963);
- (“Rain Seen for Visit of Kennedy”), page 1 (Thursday, November 21, 1963);
- (“The President”—Editorial), Section 4, page 2 (Friday, November 22, 1963).

Yes, that Question: Who am I? really did once enter into Richard Nixon’s mind in the idea stream of soul searching that he did on that Friday morning. If the great Highway Contract Protesters were smart, then unlike Richard Nixon’s accelerated dissipation of difficult Questions his lack of factual knowledge created impediments to comprehending, this is one Question that Protesters should home in on without letup, until an Answer surfaces somewhere. There is no other Question in this Life that could be asked that is more important. Richard Nixon’s error was in chasing the idea away quickly—indicative of the error in judgment he also exercised as an unprincipled opportunist, when he was once invited to jump into bed with Nelson Rockefeller, a judgment that as of 1985 Richard Nixon has quietly both appreciated and regretted making several times over. Yes, Richard Nixon got that right: Us little peasants do in fact hold the upper hand in ways invisible to Gremlins, imps and their water boys: Being the clumsy, ignorant, dumb, stupid, uncluttered and unmotivated simple little goy cattle that we are, at least we haven’t forfeited the Celestial Kingdom by murdering other people.

[END QUOTING]

THOUGHTS SEED. PRECEDE ACTS

[QUOTING:]
...Yes, correct reasoning is very important to acquire down here, and there is a very good reason why this is so: because how we think today governs our acts tomorrow. This Principle operates as a function of the memory judgment-making machinery in our minds, an important Principle that Lucifer once deeply regretted violating in the First Estate, as he once continuously tossed aside and ignored Father’s seemingly insignificant little advisories:

“Thoughts are the seeds of acts, and precede them. Mere compliance with the word of the Lord, without a corresponding inward desire, will avail little. Indeed, such outward actions and pretending phrases may disclose hypocrisy, a sin that Jesus [Immanuel] vehemently condemned.

“...The Savior’s constant desire and effort were to implant in the mind right thoughts, pure motives, noble ideas, knowing full well that right words and actions would eventually follow. He taught what modern physiology and psychology confirm—that hate, jealousy, and other evil passions destroy a man’s physical vigor and efficiency. ‘They pervert his mental perceptions and render him incapable of resisting the temptation to commit acts of violence. They undermine his moral health. By insidious stages they transform the man who cherishes them into a criminal.’

“...I am trying to emphasize that each one is the architect of his own fate, and he is unfortunate, indeed, who will try to build himself without the inspiration of God, without realizing that he grows from within, not from without. (Yes, just like that Silver Bullet that Protesters are also looking for—it too lies within yourselves.)”—David O. McKay in Conference Reports (“The Need for Right Thinking”), at page 6 (October, 1951).

[END QUOTING]

As we near the end of this amazing “letter” from George Mercier to Mr. May, I am sure the reader will agree that the presentation of this material has been worthwhile—NOT because it provides any kind of a “Silver Bullet” to allow us to be left alone and in peace but because it shows us very clearly how the abrogation of individual responsibility, en masse, has led to the current condition of near-absolute inability to remove ourselves from enslavement.

Our only real freedom from the perils of this world as it is rests on our connection to our Creator.

World News Insights

It is a bit of a challenge to round up significant but unappreciated news events in the limited space available at present but we’ll “do our best”.

Up front, we thank John Ray for contributing his comments to an article by Terry Macalister in England’s The Guardian dated 6/16/04:

Iran Takes on West’s Control of Oil Trading “Iran is to launch an oil trading market for Middle East and Opec producers that could threaten the supremacy of London’s International Petroleum Exchange.

“A contract to design and establish a new platform for crude, natural gas and petrochemical trades is expected to be signed with an international consortium within days.

“Top oil producing countries are determined to seize more control of trading after being advised that existing markets such as the IPE and Nymex in New York are not working in their favour.

“...The Tehran oil bourse is scheduled to open in 2005, according to its architect, Mohammad Javad Asemipour, who is a personal adviser to the Iranian energy minister.”

[JR: An excuse (lie) was found to invade Iraq shortly after Saddam changed the UN “Oil for Food” program sales from the dollar to the euro as well as all Iraq’s Central Bank reserves to the euro. Because of this extremely profitable move (i.e. rising euro vs falling dollar) Iraq was invaded and Saddam was ousted. Let’s hope this doesn’t cause a go-it-alone U.S. invasion of Iran. Will the American people bury their heads in the sand again, and what about the rest of the world? Suppose Iran does have nuclear weapons like North Korea, this could very well trigger World War IV.] [EJ: Thanks, JR, we can use the help and comments.]

Next we turn to a series of topics covered by Joel Skousen in his World Affairs Brief of June 25, 2004 (<http://www.worldaffairsbrief.com>).

Third Party Challenge
Although the following excerpted comment is not at the heart of Mr. Skousen’s article, it is “well said” and we appreciate the sentiment:

“We may not win the temporal battle and actually regain our full constitutional liberty (in light of the powerful collusion of forces arrayed against us), but we need to help each other garner the resolve to stop compromising on essential and core principles... We may not convince the majority that our position is best, long-term, but at least we must convince those who sense something is wrong and are open to change—for those are the ones with whom our true obligation lies. It is out of the principled few that God chooses a remnant to survive the ultimate destruction he brings upon nations who refuse to repent. We must all do our part to build a remnant of good people, willing to band together to help rebuild when the inevitable consequences befall this all-too-proud nation.”

U.S. Amends War Crimes Immunity Resolution

“After the Abu Graib prison scandal, no nation in the U.N. can afford to be seen as sympathetic to U.S. demands that its soldiers in Iraq be granted immunity from war crimes prosecution. So, in order to avoid an embarrassing defeat in this increasingly high profile case before the U.N., the Bush administration has backed down from its position of a total exemption and has floated the idea that it would accept a one-year extension for now. The U.S. is hoping things will settle down in Iraq within a year so that they can come back and gain a more permanent exemption. The real answer, of course, is to stop abusing the Iraqi people with excessive force and degrading prison interrogations.”

U.S. Leaks Embarrassing Data on Loss of Fighter Superiority

In response to NewsMax reporter Charles Smith’s observation that “According to an unreleased U.S.A.F. report, the F-15 Eagle—the most advanced U.S. fighter in service—is inferior to the latest versions of the Sukhoi Su-30 Flanker,” Skousen replies:

“What the wake up call should really be about is the realization that Russian high tech fighters are now essentially equal to U.S. fighters in electronic and radar technology, while still being superior turning aircraft in a slower dog fight.”

Perfect Counterfeit Money Growing

“They call them ‘superdollars’ because they seem to be made on U.S. banknote presses—only the paper is partially flawed. The official line about the superdollar... is that it originated from North Korea and is spent into circulation by North Korean diplomats. This is only partially true. The real source is Russia.”

Supreme Court Declines to Force Cheney to Reveal Documents

“Many voices have called for Justice Antonin Scalia to recuse himself from the case after it became public knowledge that he went duck hunting with the VP and might have a bias against the plaintiffs in the case. Scalia refused to recuse himself and voted to sustain the administration’s claim to secrecy. The case has been remanded to the lower courts for final adjudication. They are not expected to rule against the government now that the Supreme Court has refused to do so. Once again, we are seeing a pattern of collusion between the courts and the Executive that was not intended by our Constitutional founders.”

Planning for the Draft

“This is ominous and tells me that this administration is planning on huge increases in manpower. The number of eligible draftees between 18 and 25 is huge. Taking it to age 34 would double that amount, not to mention the hardships on families this would incur since most men in the latter age group are not single. These kinds of numbers only make sense if I am correct in my analysis that our globalist administration intends to induce a third world war through this continual antagonism of the Muslim, Slavic, and Asian worlds.”

Does anyone recall that the first, “white” horse of Revelations 6:2: “...and he went forth conquering, and to conquer”?

Mental Health Screening Coming

Citing British journalist Jeanne Lenzer: “A sweeping mental health initiative will be unveiled by President George W Bush in July.... Bush established the New Freedom Commission on Mental Health in April 2002 to conduct a ‘comprehensive study of the United States mental health service delivery system.’ The president’s commission found that ‘despite their prevalence, mental disorders often go undiagnosed’ and recommended comprehensive mental health screening for ‘consumers of all ages’, including preschool children.”

Preschool children? Oh sure, those hellacious little toddlers really should be forced to “take a pill” or other medication such as Ritalin! Hold on, readers, because it is going to get even more crazy before this is over.

Your Papers, Please

According to Mr. Skousen, the Supreme Court recently set “a precedent that police can routinely establish check points and demand identification. The next step is a national ID system that all are required to carry on their persons at all times. This is just one more card in the growing government control system.”

VK Durham Fraud Unraveling

Just when you think VK Durham cannot possibly get more insanely and inanelly absurd—you find yourself making another error in judgment.

As usual, we find ourselves in a position of being simply unable to keep up with the sheer volume of “crap” (as referenced in the letter, below) emanating from theantechamber.net website.

In a wrting dated June 18, entitled “Frauds and Subversive Banking...”, citing an email purportedly sent to the very agencies who should have put a STOP to her antics long ago, VK tries to perpetutate the myth of her non-existent “Trust”.

She asserts that “a group of ‘MUSLIMS’” is somehow, “using of all things our RETIRED Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing, Ltd.”. I suppose we have been called worse things than “Muslims”, although in the current environment the malicious intent is rather transparent. We do, however, take great exception to any notion that CSEML is in any way “retired” and, again, the lie is easily proven by anyone with access to the Internet, who can look up Nevada’s public records.

In her June 18 missive, VK references “four” corporations formed by these purported “Muslims” but we can hardly take that much “credit”, having formed only Inter-American Investment Corporation and not the other three listed entities.

Curiously and as if to juxtapose her lies in even starker contrast to the truth, Ms. Durham references GAIA’s Public Notice “Memorandum of Directive” (see facing page). The GAIA Program is, of course, quite real—if vastly underutilized at the moment.

We can easily imagine why, in VK’s words, “DO NOT INVESTIGATE” was the response from all government agents and agencies she contacted in her efforts to suborn the REAL deal: because such agents and agencies have been told or otherwise made aware of the validity of the GAIA position and/or because it could only cause problems for those in power who are using the asset quite unlawfully.

We’ll let readers evaluate for themselves, based on the comments in the letter, below, the validity of THIS statement by VK Durham:

“When the Debt Payment of $6.5 Trillion Dollars Equity Gold Collateral, Debt Swap-Debt Conversion Payment of the U.S. and Continental DEBT was made, May 21, 2003, negotiated through your ‘agent’ Kamarulzaman Bin Annuar representing UBS-HSBC-THE NEW YORK FED, CLEAR STREAM, EURO CLEAR etc; We did so with Clean Hands and In Good Faith.”

Clean hands and good faith? The problem is that VK has lied to herself so much that she has convinced herself (and convicted herself) in the process.

VK declares: “Your ‘agent’ and his ‘associates’ decided to tie in with the before mentioned individuals, corporations etc operating out of the Philippines.”

NO—not yet—but we certainly don’t mind providing these co-victims of VK’s “rule the world” syndrome with plenty of backup for legal proceedings.

We don’t know Mr. Bin Annuar but we certainly doubt that he, as VK says, “made great mention of THE TRUST PAYING OFF THE $400 TRILLION DOLLAR U.S. EXTERNAL DEBT.”

For some (most probably insane) reason, VK really seems to like that nice, round figure of $400 TRILLION. Added to the $400 TRILLION she alleges that GAIA “took” from China—in gold value, no less, when there is only something on the order of $7 to $8 trillion worth of gold in the entire world, to our knowledge—that makes a nice, round figure of some $800 TRILLION floating around. Surely, we soon must be reaching the limits of VK’s (or anyone’s) imagination in this regard.

“Chief Gamelsgarrd [sic];” she bleats, “I believe you can attest to my ‘credibility’.” IF such a person exists at Interpol, which is doubtful, it is more doubtful still that he could make any such attestation without being quite insane himself.

“Unfortunately”, we are out of space and cannot present more VK Madness at this time. Stay tuned.

Letter from Victim of VK Durham Fraud (from www.theantechamber.net website):

May 28, 2004
Ms. V. K. Durham ~ Ida Grove, Iowa 51445

Dear V.K.

If you will recall, I originally met you through a minority group that you had promised collateral to. Your collateral was supposed to be able to be utilized by them to borrow money, which funds you would split with them on a 50/ 50 basis.

Most of the people you promised collateral to were the same sort as you..... Unlicensed brokers who do not work but who try to exploit others and scam them out of their hard earned dollars with their smooth tongues and convincing outlandish fairytales are a huge menace to society as evidenced, by existing laws designed to prevent such behavior.

You told me the preposterous story of how your great, great grandfather (or the like) won a huge amount of Peruvian Government bonds (backed by the U.S. Government) in a crap game (or the like) on a Mississippi river gambling boat. “Crap” is a good descriptive adjective for what you claim that you have.

Your “instruments” are completely outside of the banking system and are not properly lodged in any major bank or securities firm where their value can be confirmed on a bank to bank basis, nor are they confirmable by the U.S. Treasury, so they’re valueless for all intents and purposes. You may as well have issued them to yourself!

Unfortunately for us, we went through a lot before finding out that your “collateral” was not confirmable or valid. You were claiming to me, Mack and Kamal that you had a great asset capable of being utilized for legitimate project funding! Further you said that you needed to move quickly and for “security purposes” we needed a face-to-face meeting in Jackson. You pressed for this meeting immediately and not at a time that was convenient for us. We accommodated you, nevertheless, and were taking your claims of validity at face value.

In order to quiet you down and attempt to accommodate you, we sent your material and your package to Kamal for verification. You were still maintaining at this time that your “instruments” were properly lodged within the banking system, and verifiable bank to bank. You finally allowed me to speak to your banker in Ida Grove, Iowa who was only able to say that he was holding some papers for you in a safety deposit box in his small state bank. This is hardly what you represented to us!! We also know that you had promised this banker the Presidency of his bank, once you purchased his institution, which you told him you planned to do. You represented to us that you had a true bankable asset. Far from it!

V.K., the only explanation that I can see for much of your Saga is that you have to have a serious mental illness!! You appear to be a bonafide Triple NUTT!!

It is a shame that whatever happened to you in your lifetime has brought you to this sad state. You’re operating with essentially no integrity and with “Unusable Instruments” that you are trying to convert to some very questionable dollars to put in your pocket. We do not operate like this; we will not be a part of your shenanigans.

If you choose to continue to ignore legal reality, in the furtherance of your financial schemes to bilk investors out of their money with your “phony financial instruments” you are going to face serious litigations or a much worse plight.

We work, we earn, we are legitimate productive citizens operating with integrity and we enjoy excellent reputations. We are deeply concerned about your defaming me, Mack, and Kamal with your internet lies and fiction writing, and you need to know that we are going to whatever legal lengths necessary to get you to cease and desist!! The facts are fully on our side!! Your Internet accusations against us are totally libelous and slanderous and you will have to answer for them!

We believed you, we accepted you at face value and attempted to assist you, and this is the thanks we have gotten.

There was no way that Kamal could sign your agreements, because there was nothing of substance on your side! Your “Assets” were not legitimate, not valid, nor did you even have proper title to them!

As you know, proper entitlement is a crucial legal issue, along with valid instruments! V. K., what you’re doing is a direct violation of S.E.C regulations, as the way you are trying to utilize your “instrwnents” qualifies them to be considered as a security! You are soliciting the unsuspecting public to invest in a worthless security. You likewise solicited us and tried to cause us to give some value to your unregistered securities. You are facing some major violations and in no way are we ever going to be a party to that kind of illegal and unscrupulous activity! Your paper work put you in violation of the law! Collateral is a security.

If you do not immediately rescind and remove any and all information involving Mack, Kamal and me from the Internet, I will register a formal complaint with the S.E.C. as well as the District Attorney in Ida Grove. Our capable attorneys are also reviewing all of our legal options, which we intend to utilize to the fullest!

You need to get a real job, V.K., and quit telling all of your outlandish stories about receiving a legitimate asset from your great great grandfather, etc. You are not as special as you think you are. You need to treat others with dignity and respect and come off of that superiority attitude that you portray. All of us need to work for our bread and not try to short cut the process by lying, cheating, and the like.

You need to consider your relatives that you are bumming off of and let them live the rest of their lives in some semblance of peace and tranquility apart from the emotional turmoil you constantly inflict on them, as well as the financial drain. You need to get a job—get a life—and do something constructive before your past begins to seriously catch up with you!

You are forcing us to take action against you while on the one hand we actually pity you as someone who is sick and needs help.

If you don’t cease and desist within the next 72 hours and remove all references to us from the Internet, we will be forced to retain a professional company to utilize the Internet to locate people you may have accepted money from for your unregistered and worthless so called security! We will alert the world to protect the public if need be.

We relied on your representations, (which proved to be false) that “instruments” were confirmable with the bank.

This whole fiasco will make a good script for a financial horror movie, but no one could play your part but you. It would only make a “B” movie, at best!

I worshiped the ground that my grandmother walked on and she was high strung like you. It hurts me to have to, write a letter like this, but you have caused serious problems in legitimate peoples lives.

At this stage of your life, you should be helping others, instead of hurting them. No matter who you are, there’s one immutable law and truth that applies to all of us. Whatever we sow, we can absolutely be certain that that is what we are going to reap!! Sowing the devil’s seed we reap the devil’s harvest!

God loves a person who will change, however, and my prayers for you, V.K., are that you will change for everyone’s sake—especially your own, because you are putting yourself and others in great legal peril.

It’s easy to prove a liar to be a liar. When Mack played back for me the actual conversation he just had with you and Jackie, it was very substantially different from what you put on the Internet for the world to read. Blatant lies for the world to read.

Wake up V.K.—Wake up right now—you are in peril from your own action and misrepresentations. Please know that I am prepared to do whatever I need to do legally to rein you in, and those wheels are already in motion. You can still head it off, however, if you can find some sanity.

With poor regards
Jerry D. Hansard

The REAL Deal:

We are re-running this Public Notice from 1998 because of reference to it in VK Durham's writing of June 18, 2004 (see facing page) AND to refresh our readers with the REALITY of the GAIA Program, which provides the foundation for a New World in which "unlimited" shall be made available for humanitarian purposes and improvement of the human condition. REJOICE, readers and supporters, for we are "almost there".

Public Notice

GLOBAL ALLIANCE INVESTMENT ASSOCIATION

MEMORANDUM OF DIRECTIVE

The following points and authorities are offered hereby to eliminate any misunderstandings between negotiating parties as relative to the PERUVIAN BONUS CERTIFICATE # 3392-181, originated in 1875 and accepted as United States of America Treasury debt in 1906.

Since this debt was assumed prior to any other agreements involving monetary departments, divisions, or branches of government, this is a bonafide outstanding debt of the United States of America, the U.S. Treasury, the Federal Reserve System, the International Monetary Fund and the central World Bank and/or branches thereof.

The applicable restrictions and limitations in this transaction will apply to all participants. Due to NATIONAL SECURITY considerations no input to change or remand the validity of the debt created by BONUS 3392 will be accepted from the COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS, the UNITED NATIONS, or any other entity, foreign or domestic.

As of November, 1997, all records formerly kept (and available for inspection) at the Peruvian Consulate in Los Angeles have been moved to Peru to prevent their possible destruction. Only individuals having appropriate authorization and credentials will be allowed to view them there.

All relevant documents, including the lawful chain-of-title of Bonus 3392, were legally recorded on August 10, 1998 at 8:35 A.M. and may be found at the office of Judith A. Vandever, Clark County Recorder, 500 South Grand Central Parkway, Las Vegas, Nevada 891-55-1510, Book 980810, Instrument 00323.

Because the amount of debt created by BONUS 3392 is so large that the global economy could be brought to collapse through its misuse, agreements have been finalized to allow the hypothecation of portions of the debt (through the use of contracts or deeds of assignment or leasing agreements) pursuant to the following rules and restrictions:

While prior use of the contract/certificate is noted, the parties using it will not be named in this document. Should such parties refuse their cooperation in the future, they may be named.

The contract has been utilized by the U.S. and hypothecated as COLLATERAL for use of the IMF and WB for the support of United Nations activities.

It has been agreed that the United States Federal Government may continue to use these contracts as collateral up to fifty percent (50%) of the accrued value.

The Holder of the contracts will be allowed to utilize the other fifty percent (50%), PROVIDING:

The Holder and its funding parties restrict themselves to single contracts not exceeding fifty billion dollars. (This does NOT preclude the offering of more than one such contract to any one entity.)

To avoid exposure of too large an asset it will be permissible to utilize corporations of common ownership to hold such additional contracts.

Under extraordinary circumstances warranting the issuance of one larger contract, for instance, the purchase of a single property, larger contracts may be issued if care is taken not to exceed the 50% use limitation.

It is anticipated that the Holder will purchase gold equal to the value of its portion of the contract to be pledged as collateral for a line-of-credit. Any "lease" arrangement must be structured to accommodate this requirement. The payment for leased collateral will be applied only to the funds available to the funder (not those of the Holder) and will be one percent (1%) per month for 120 months or two percent (2%) for 60 months.

As a consideration of National Security (as well as Global Security), transactions WITHIN these guidelines will not be interfered with or blocked by the U.S. or its assigns. The consideration for such noninterference is that none of these contracts will be lodged for collection until such time as there is an additional agreement as to the lodging and honoring, through payoff, of the contracts.

Generally, it will be the practice of the Holder to expect the funder to provide loan capabilities and to purchase the gold as needed wherever there is security and it is NOT required to be housed within the U.S.

The Holder will not directly do business with any national group under sanction by either the U.S. or U.N. There is to be no restriction, however, on other parties or nations conducting business in their normal way. The Holder will conduct itself in the strictest accordance with all applicable laws.

The Holder has agreed to use its portion of funds for humanitarian purposes. No portion of its funds or assets will be used for purposes of ARMS ACQUISITION, WAR MAKING, OR THE OVERTHROW OR SUBVERSION OF ANY NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. However, the Holder has no way to police the use of funds by any other participating party.

Any abuse of these contracts or this DIRECTIVE will be considered by the U.S. as TREASON.

We must repeat that which is already obvious: THIS ONE ENTITY HAS VALUE ENOUGH TO DESTROY THE ENTIRE WORLD ECONOMY AND THIS WILL NOT BE ALLOWED THROUGH MISUSE THEREOF. If the participants abide by the agreements and restrict ourselves to good business procedures all can have a very productive and lucrative association.

To this DIRECTIVE we affix the authorized signatures and corporate seal to validate same.

Budget’s “Tip of the Week” #1:

NRS 78.105—Maintenance of Records at the Registered Office

According to NRS 78.105 (restated, emphasis added): A corporation has a responsibility to maintain certain corporate records at its registered office for inspection by stockholders, including a State-certified copy of its Articles of Incorporation, a copy of the Bylaws and the stock ledger (or a statement naming the ledger’s custodian, including the address at which the ledger is kept).

It is hard to see why such records should be maintained in any case where no stock has been issued, as the expressed intent of NRS 78.105 appears to be to ensure that stockholders should have access to these corporate records. Of course, a court order may compel production of the corporate records and in that event, failure to produce them within a “reasonable” time could result in State penalties of $25 per day for each day of refusal. In such an instance you would have up to five days to produce the records, which, of course, would be in perfect order.

If you choose to leave such records on file at the registered office of the corporation, you might want to take an extra measure of caution regarding privacy of those records and insist upon a non-disclosure agreement with the resident agent. Such an agreement should prevent the resident agent from casually identifying you with the corporation and from sharing the corporation’s filed records with anyone other than the corporation’s stockholders. (Otherwise, those records are potentially accessible by anyone making an inquiry.) And hopefully such an agreement would give the resident agent pause to consider additional security against those who might “snoop around”.

Here is one more thing you can do to protect your privacy: Contact your resident agent and ensure that there are NO documents on file that connect YOUR NAME to the corporation. Have the resident agent expunge and shred any old memos, order forms and any other such information that could adversely impact your desire for privacy.

The next “Tip of the Week” will discuss Nevada’s statutory sanctions against anyone who would even attempt to access the corporation’s records for purposes contrary to the interests of the stockholders.
